

ONE MAN KILLED

NIGHT EDITION GIVEN TO THE JURY

Mayor Brown's Libel Suit Concluded Today

Arguments by Opposing Counsel and Charge by Judge Pierce Defining the Rights of Plaintiff and Defendant in Case

The case of Mayor Brown vs. John H. Harrington, proprietor of The Sun, went to the jury today. The evidence was completed yesterday afternoon and the arguments began with the opening of the court.

Argument for Defendant
James J. Kerwin, counsel for the defense, spoke in part as follows:
"It is part of the fundamental principles of law that the right of free speech and free press shall be held inviolate and the law only holds him up for the abuse of his right. If he prints the truth and without malice, the law holds he is acting within his rights. For the past five years there has been a wave of reform against the monster of graft and corruption that is threatening the country. In this great battle the newspapers of the land have stood together against this monster. When John H. Harrington found that George H. Brown was being taken seriously and knowing that he had seriously abused his official position, he came out in his paper and opposed his election.

"George H. Brown is not a man of truth and he was not on the witness stand 10 minutes when he lied. He said that he was not intimate with any liquor dealers and in the next breath he said that he went to Boston with Anthony Walsh to buy furniture and Anthony Walsh admitted the fact. He said that he did not meet James Fulton Corbett in Mrs. Fitzgerald's house and yet you heard Mr. Corbett, a disinterested witness, testify that he met Brown in her house. My brother will tell you that Mrs. Fitzgerald is not a truthful woman. You recall her story on the witness stand.

"If Brown accepted a dollar from Mrs. Fitzgerald then John H. Harrington printed the truth.

"Take the evidence of Mr. O'Connor. I pitied that young man on the witness stand, starting on the threshold of life. He leaves this court room a self-confessed liar and he lied at the request of this honorable gentleman who is mayor of Lowell. The mayor's action in sending this spy into the enemy's camp betrays the guilty heart inside his coat. If you find that John H. Harrington did not tell the truth, then the witnesses for the defense are liars, while the only white robed angel of truth is George H. Brown. Take all the pieces of testimony and put them together and won't you find that George H. Brown was all that John H. Harrington said about him?

"Now did John H. Harrington show any malice? Brown said that he was perfectly satisfied with The Sun's attitude until after the nominations. Mr. Harrington was charitable towards Brown, for he withheld the article until the last day.

"Going back to Brown's testimony, you heard him testify that when a liquor inspector he went around to saloons alone but seldom, when ex-Supt. Moffatt testified that half his time was spent going about alone. He said he never went into Mrs. Fitzgerald's alone but if that be true then James Fulton Corbett must have lied on the witness stand. What would be his object in so going?

"In regard to the matter of malice, Mr. Harrington runs a great paper, a power in the community. It was immaterial to him what candidates were in the field. His duty was to prevent a bad man's election. He had heard the stories about Brown and as soon as he found the people taking this man's candidacy seriously it became his duty to warn the public against him and that is what he did.

"You must not be swayed by the fact

SKETCH OUTLINE SHOWING THE FATAL ACCIDENT AT LITTLETON.

Bad Accident Occurred at Littleton This Morning

Joseph B. Breed, the well known as the Great road in Littleton, Mass. banker, whose residence is 54 Nahant street, Lynn, was instantly killed riding turned turtle shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. His wife, who was an occupant of the car, was thrown out when the machine overturned and sustained a fracture of the right ankle and also a fracture of the right wrist. She was buried in an automobile to the Lowell General hospital, where she received treatment. It was at first thought that her condition was dangerous, but at the time of going to press this afternoon the report from the hospital was that the woman was resting comfortably.

Mr. Henry Berry, a well known Boston lawyer and son-in-law of Mr. Breed, who was also in the car, escaped with minor bruises, as did the chauffeur. Both were treated at the residence of George Stone in Littleton by Dr. Godfrey of that town.

Cause of Accident
There is a difference of opinion as to the cause of the accident. The occupants of the car claim that the skidding of the machine at the rate of speed at which it was going, about 60 miles an hour, caused the car to turn turtle, though people who witnessed the accident are of the opinion that some part of the steering gear broke which caused the chauffeur to lose control and the machine to skid.

The few people who witnessed the accident claim that when they first saw the machine, the front wheels were wobbling about the road as though the chauffeur had lost control, though the latter was making desperate attempts to steady the front wheels and bring the machine to a stop.

When the emergency brakes were applied the rear wheels of the car dug the ground for a distance of about 100 yards.

The car did not come to a stop until it struck a huge tree on the side of the road. The machine was overturned and the occupants were thrown out.

Coming from Templeton
Mrs. Berry, Mr. Breed's daughter, summers at the Templeton Inn in Templeton, Mass., which is 10 miles this side of Athol. Inasmuch as yesterday was a holiday in and around Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Breed and Mr. Berry decided to visit the Inn and Wednesday went over the road in their big touring car and spent yesterday with Mrs. Berry.

As Mr. Breed and Mr. Berry had to return this morning, they left the Inn about six o'clock in their automobile. Besides Messrs. Breed and Berry there were Mrs. Breed and the chauffeur.

Travelled at Fast Speed.
The car, which is a very high powered one, was sent along the route at a fast rate of speed, the ground being covered at the rate of sixty miles an hour excepting when passing through the thickly settled parts of towns.

The Great road, is a good straight stretch and when this place was reached the throttle was thrown wide open and the car was "burning" the road when it began to skid. The chauffeur, finding that he was losing control of the machine, applied the brakes cautiously in order not to bring the car to a sudden stop. Then he realized he could not control the front wheels with the steering wheel.

He immediately applied the emergency brake, but without avail, for the machine was at that time wobbling from side to side, and about one hundred yards from the place where he applied the emergency brake the car took a sudden turn to the side of the road and crashed against a large tree and was overturned.

Mr. Breed was thrown against the tree and instantly killed.

Dr. Godfrey Summoned
Dr. Godfrey of Littleton was notified and he arrived on the scene shortly after the accident, as did others who heard of it.

A quick examination of Mr. Breed showed that he was dead, and Dr. Godfrey then turned his attention to the other occupants of the car. Mrs. Breed was unconscious, while Mr. Berry and the chauffeur were badly bruised and shaken up, but able to assist themselves.

At first it was thought that Mrs. Breed was at the point of death, but the doctor found after further examination that she would live.

Dr. Godfrey placed the woman in an automobile and had her driven at top speed to this city, where she was taken to the Lowell General hospital. The doctor accompanied Mrs. Breed and upon examination at the hospital it was found that she was suffering from a fracture of the right ankle, fracture of the right wrist, minor bruises, and was badly shaken up. It is not thought that she is internally injured.

After being taken to the hospital Mrs. Breed had been properly cared for. Dr. Godfrey returned to Littleton and attended Mr. Berry and the chauffeur.

Mr. Berry and the chauffeur of the machine were cared for at the residence of George Stone near where the accident happened.

Machines Wrecked
The automobile, which was a valuable one, was almost demolished as a result of its contact with the tree, the body being smashed to pieces, the machinery bent and distorted into a shape unrecognizable, while the furnishings of the car were scattered about the road.

Deceased a Prominent Man
Mr. Breed was born in Lynn in March, 1849, and was a graduate of the University of Michigan. He was a former lumber merchant and trader and bank official. For the past ten years he devoted his entire time to banking. He was a vice president of the Lynn Institution for Savings, a director of the Central National Bank of Lynn, director of the Lynn Hospital corporation and vesterman of St. Stephen's Episcopal church. He was very prominent in business circles and one of the leading citizens of Lynn.

Besides his wife he is survived by two children, Mrs. Henry Berry and Charles Norcross Breed of Lynn. Also a brother, Henry W. Breed.

IS NOT GUILTY
Court Orders That Woman be Freed

NEW BEDFORD, June 18.—The jury in the case of Jenny L. Briggs of Taunton, charged with the embezzlement of approximately $5000 from her son, of whose estate she was the trustee, deliberated three quarters of an hour and returned a verdict of not guilty on all counts. The court thereupon ordered the defendant's discharge.

Mrs. Briggs was extremely nervous as she stood at the rail of the dock to await the verdict of the jury and as she heard the words "not guilty" she sank back in her chair her hands twitching convulsively. It was some little time before she recovered sufficiently to leave the courthouse. She will make her home with a sister in Boston.

GIRL WITH AUBURN HAIR ON EVERY PACKAGE.

MADE HER HAIR GROW

IT WILL ALSO MAKE YOURS GROW

"For several months my hair had been falling out, and I was greatly distressed with dandruff. I used many so-called hair tonics and renewers, but never received any relief from the scalp disease until I procured Parisian Sage and used it for about two weeks. Parisian Sage made the hair stop falling out, and caused it to grow in quite heavily, stopped the dandruff and made the scalp clean and comfortable. It also leaves the hair silky, and does not make it stiff or sticky."—Mrs. H. Lawrence, 187 West 17th St., Holland, Mich., Oct. 30, 1908.

This is the exact size of a package of Parisian Sage as it is sold at druggists. Why should you hesitate to use it when such remarkable cures are being made daily?

PARISIAN SAGE

Is the discovery of a noted scientist, and it contains exactly the proper ingredients that go to make healthy hair. As a hair dressing, and to prevent disease of the hair and scalp, it is positively better than any other preparation. No matter what condition your hair is in it will grow longer, more beautiful and luxuriant if Parisian Sage is used.

Parisian Sage is not a dye, but is the favorite hair dressing of the refined women of America, because one application makes the hair unusually attractive.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to stop falling hair, cure itching of the scalp and dandruff in two weeks, or money back.

Price only 50 cents a large bottle at druggists in every town in America or direct, all charges prepaid by the American makers, the Gibson Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

My high priced brothers of the tailoring fraternity make the claim that MITCHELL advertising is destructive to high priced tailoring—that it has destroyed the public's confidence in their methods. To this I wish to say that it has not been my advertising solely but their own inability to readjust themselves to conditions today that has brought this situation about. That MY PRICES prevent them from competing with me is not my worry. I am in business to sell custom clothing as low as I can. ### 55 WERE INJURED

During Observance of Bunker Hill Day

BOSTON, June 18.—The maimed and injured in the re-fought battle of Bunker Hill yesterday came near rivaling, if not exceeding, that of the actual battle of 134 years ago, even as the uproar of the early morning hours was comparable with the din of musketry and shouts of foe and friend in the historic contest. Fifty-five injured were treated at the hospitals of Boston up to an early hour in the evening and an even greater number had been treated by physicians and others at their homes. Fortunately, there were no serious wounds.

Charlestown's great day closed last night with an electric pageant which far exceeded in beauty and elaborateness any previous exhibition of the kind. A dozen or more floats, bearing the leading beauties of the city arrayed in fantastic costumes, passed through the main streets of Charlestown over the trolley car tracks during three hours of the evening. The pageant was emblematical of the "Gems of the World," and the floats in turn represented the brilliancy and lustre of the diamond, ruby, emerald, garnet, amethyst and kindred precious stones. Miss Hettie Turnbull, as last year, was the queen of the carnival and rode on a dais in the diamond float. It was estimated that fully 100,000 people witnessed the display.

Two big parades had previously moved about the city. In the afternoon parade were a thousand sailors from the battleships at the navy yard with companies of militia and high school battalions, Spanish war veterans and representatives from civic organizations, headed by the famous old Charlestown artillery.

The city was aflame with bunting and flags, and religious, social and fraternal organizations generally kept open house from early morning to midnight.

The celebration wound up last night with an explosion of fireworks in a store on Broadway, South Boston, which resulted in burns and injuries to five young people and the destruction of $500 worth of fireworks and but little damage to the building.

The explosion occurred in the store at 402 Broadway, which was opened a few days ago by Wm. E. Phillips of 224 Hale street, Lowell, with a stock of fireworks for the holiday. Phillips had been bottling during the day by boys throwing lighted fire crackers into his store windows.

Late in the evening a bunch of exploding fire crackers landed among the fireworks in the window with the result that a terrific explosion shook the building and blew out the stock of the store and a series of explosions followed as the fireworks were consumed.

Henry Frank Phillips, aged 16, who was in the store, was the most seriously burned and may lose the sight of his eyes.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Peavey; reading, Henry Jordan; Highland fling, John Farley; reading, Gladys King; Irish reel, William Walker; solo, John Veiton. Auction pitch and whist were then enjoyed until a late hour. Santos; sub-chief ranger, Jacob Bassler; recording secretary, James White; senior woodward, George Murphy; junior woodward, James Gill; junior beadle, James Farrell. It was voted to hold an outing at Mountain Rock in August, and a committee was named to make arrangements for the same.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A satchel containing $150, patent papers on a clothes washer and valuable letters was stolen from the visitors' gallery of the senate yesterday.

Wm. F. Masters of Sterling, Mass., and Jamestown, N. Y., the owner of the satchel, left it in the care of the doorkeeper while he took a seat to listen to the debate on the tariff bill. When he returned for his satchel it was gone.

FORTY DYERS OUT

Quit Work at Merrimack Print Works Today

Forty employees of the fancy jig dye house of the Merrimack Print works, all skilled dyers, quit their work this morning as the result of an attempt of the overseer, Fred Greenwood, to have them teach the business to two Greeks. The men were paid off upon leaving the mill.

According to the story of the men out of work, the Greeks were put to work last Wednesday morning and the regular employees announced that unless they were withdrawn by noon they would quit work. They were withdrawn at 10 o'clock that morning and everything went along smoothly until this morning when they were put to work again. The men protested against their presence without avail and then went out.

GREAT TRIBUTE

The Nation, State and City Honor
Wright Brothers

DAYTON, O., June 18.—The nation, the state and the city in which they lived, today paid tribute to William and Orville Wright, the aviators. Standing on a platform not far from their unpretentious little aeroplane factory and almost within sight of a field where they first struggled with the problem of aerial navigation, Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the army, assigned by Secretary of War Dickinson for the purpose, presented to the Wright brothers the gold medals authorized by an act of congress. At the same time were given them a diamond studded medal, bearing the official state seal, and another from Dayton, their home city. The state medal was presented by Gov. Harmon of Ohio, the local medal by Mayor Burkhardt of Dayton. Baron Kogo Takahira, the Japanese ambassador, and Carlos G. Velez, the Cuban minister, were among those at the ceremony. After the presentation ceremonies the crowds witnessed a parade of floats depicting the development of locomotion in America. This was headed by an Indian runner and after various stages from the cart to the auto was shown, was concluded by an aeroplane.

Although this, the second day of Dayton's homecoming celebration was crowded with events arranged in their honor, the Wrights found time to work in their shops preparing to depart for Washington, where they are to resume flights for the government next week. Wilbur Wright said they hoped to leave tomorrow.

As soon as the government's requirements are fulfilled, it is expected they will sail for Germany to take up work for the German government.

LOSS IS $40,000

Fire Threatened to Sweep Through Wolcott, Vt.

WOLCOTT, Vt., June 18.—A fire with the hotel stables and a three story block owned by S. A. Fife. The total loss is estimated at about $40,000. Today destroyed the Wolcott house. All the buildings were of wood and the James had gained such headway when discovered that the hand engine was powerless to save the burning structure although it proved useful in preventing a further spread of the fire. There were few guests at the hotel which was a two story building with about 25 rooms and they had no difficulty in escaping from the building although some of them lost their personal effects. Mr. Fife conducted a general store in his block and had just laid in a large stock of goods for the summer season. On the floors above were several tenements. The loss on the stock and contents was about $30,000 and on the hotel and stables $10,000. There is partial insurance. The cause of the fire has not been definitely determined.

and it was with difficulty that a volun-teer crew rescued the crew from a perilous position. The captain feared that his vessel would prove a total loss, although the revenue cutter Acushnet arrived later in the day to render as-stance.

The Hartley W. left New York early in the week for Yarmouth, N. S., and had light fair weather until last night
when a southeast storm sprang up.
The little schooner anchored under the
lee of the island during the night but
just after daylight the wind suddenly shifted and her anchor engine pulling
the vessel was driven onto the rocks
off the northwest end of the island
where she began to pound heavily.

The regular station crew being off
on the annual two months' vacation
Capt. Rich of the station for the second time in a week gathered a volunteer crew and launched the lifeboat.

It was a stiff pull against the headwinds to the scene and the best of seamanship was required to work the lifeboat alongside the schooner, and
catch the six men as they jumped into the big combers. One by one they were hauled on board the lifeboat, the last man being Capt. Wesson, who is also a part owner of the vessel.

The crew were much exhausted
when they finally landed here, but found ready shelter and warm food and clothing at the homes of the islanders.

The revenue cutter Acushnet reached
the scene shortly before noon but the seas were so heavy that it was found impossible to send a boat to the stranded vessel. Later the weather moderated and there seemed to be a chance to reach her.

The Hartley W. was built at Port Greaves, N. S., in 1863 and owned in Parisboro by a Capt. Wesson and others.

TO WITHDRAW APPEAL

BERLIN, June 18.—Dieckhoff this week publishes certain letters exchanged between Count Kuno Von Moltke and Maximilian Harden, the latter agrees to withdraw his appeal
against the fine imposed by the lower court in consideration of a letter from
the count, expressing regret for certain statements made in court reflecting upon Harden. The Harden-Von Moltke case, which grew out of the Brand Tabelle scandals of 1907, is thus brought to an end.

The trial of Prince Philipp Zu Enghausen on the charge of perjury has been set for July 5.

Wanted to Improve the West

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Arthur Hooker, secretary of the board of control of the national irrigation congress, will present a resolution for approval by that organization at its meeting in Spokane, Aug. 9 to 14 mem-

originating congress to issue a per cent
gold bonds, running 10 years, to the amount of $5,000,000,000 to reclaim lands, improve rivers, irrigate and construct, protect forests and build national highways. He also says that this sum of money will be no more than is actually necessary to ready the country for the millions of acres of newly reclaimed land that will be the result of the proposed irrigation program.

La Reine Corsets Special
$1.50

There's no one brand or make of corsets which embody all the best known features, but there are many lines that are better than others.

La Reine Corsets, particularly the model we speak of, are better in many respects than the majority of corsets on the market at the same price.

They are made from a strong and durable, yet light summer fabric, calculated to give the greatest possible comfort during warm weather.

The regular price for these corsets is $2.00 a pair, but the makers made a concession in price, simply to introduce them to Lowell trade and they are offered special $1.50
at

(Instead of $2.00)

FOUND GUILTY

Boston Business Men Found Guilty
of Conspiracy and Larceny

BOSTON, June 18.—Of the nine local business men and lawyers charged with conspiracy and larceny in the sale and exchange of small stores or
"business chances" five were found guilty in the superior court today and two turned state's evidence. One was found not guilty and in the last case
the jury disagreed. Charles S. Stuart,
who was regarded as the principal in the case and William Sweett were found guilty of both conspiracy and larceny. A. E. Simpson, F. G. Holcomb and F. G. McKinnon of conspiracy. F. G. Faust and F. G. Ferguson turned state's evidence. G. H. Stuart was found not guilty while in regard to Henry Eyles, a lawyer, the jury disagreed.

C. S. Stuart, Simpson, Sweett and Faust were immediately incarcerated on a charge of larceny in one count. The nine men were indicted last winter
and the cases occupied two weeks during which the defendants were charged with inducing a number of small proprietors to mark up the value of their property and dispose of it, taking as
pay real estate which proved to be of
much less value.

PREPARED INSTANTLY. Simply add

VIEWS OF STEAMSHIP GEORGE WASHINGTON, NEW AND PALATIAL TRANSATLANTIC LINER

NEW YORK, June 18.—The new steamship George Washington of the North German Lloyd line, the largest German transatlantic liner afloat, will reach New York on June 20. The American ambassador to Germany, Dr. Jayne Hill, christened the new ship in honor of the first president of the United States, and while she is at New York on her maiden visit to the western hemisphere a bronze tablet to the memory of Washington will be unveiled on board. Mrs. William Cummings Story, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will be in charge of the ceremonies, and President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton will deliver an address. The George Washington is fitted with every modern convenience known to ocean travel. Her furnishings and interior decorations are largely in colonial style, and in striving to carry out this idea the company sent a corps of artists to this country to study Washington, so that the furnishings and the magnificent pictures that adorn the assembly rooms of the steamship might be authentic. The vessel is 222 feet 5 inches in length, beam 75 feet, depth from upper saloon deck 54 feet and depth from awning deck 80 feet. She made an average speed of 29 knots an hour on her trial trip.

$15,000 VERDICT

Rendered in Favor of
Mrs. Laxton

BOSTON, June 18.—Mrs. Sarah L. Laxton was awarded $15,000 damages against Mrs. Julia O. Hay for the alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, Dr. John W. H. Laxton, by a jury in the first session of the superior court yesterday before Judge Fessenden.

She sued for $10,000 but on motion of counsel the case went to the jury without a writ and after the verdict was returned the judge allowed the plaintiff to amend the writ fixing the amount at $15,000. She was separated from her husband in 1900. Later she obtained a divorce and alimony from him. The defendant has worked for the doctor for years. He has offices in Boston and Lynn and from the testimony takes in about $100 a day. He is an herb doctor. He was a witness for the defendant. He denied that she influenced him against his wife. He said his wife had accused him of buying dresses for other women and they separated in 1900. She shipped his face 24 years ago and they never were friendly after that. He was held for contempt at the close of court, Wednesday for calling counsel for the plaintiff a cur during cross-examination. The hearing on the contempt charge was put over until Tuesday. The defendant had denied having had any improper relations with the doctor or having tried to influence him against his wife. The jury was out about an hour and a half.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

The welcome announcement is made that the season at Lakeview theatre will open next Monday, June 21st, with a dramatic stock company headed by the popular comedian, James Kennedy and under the management of Joseph J. Flynn. Mr. Kennedy will be supported by a strong and evenly balanced company including Antonette Smart, Minnie Stanley, Agnes Lee, Dora Kennedy, Chas. Boston, Henry Walters, Jos. Foley, Peter Maguire, Thomas Burns and others, and will present a varied line of plays during the summer, and Mr. Kennedy will present some of his new songs in his inimitable manner each week. The opening play for the week of June 21st will be "Sheridan Keene," a comedy drama replete with startling situations and in which Mr. Kennedy is seen in one of his very best roles. "Sheridan Keene" will be the bill for the entire week. Matinees will be given every day commencing Tuesday. Reserved seats for all performances will be on sale at Carter & Sheridan's drug store one week in advance.

THEATRE LA SCALA

No picture shown in Lowell within the past three months has proved the big surprise that "The Foundling" has at the Theatre La Scala. Its story is clean, full of real men and women and it teaches a fine lesson in forgiveness. The woman deserts her child because of necessity and in later years when she is a prosperous star actress she finds that the man she loves has adopted her own child. Of course the three make up a happy family in the end. "The Lost Kiss" is a parody on the laugh from any one and "A Hypnotic Subject" is a second first quality comedy. There are other pictures of interest besides the songs. Miss Tressler sings "Redhead" and Charlie Rogers just hit it right with "The Whitehead Man."

STAR THEATRE

Today new motion pictures, since Wednesday, were on the program at the Star theatre. The company here reproduced Blanche Ring's highly praised and the "Little" scene from "Piff, Paff, Puff." The comedienne will not be at the theatre after Saturday, it having had a two weeks' engagement. Talking pictures and hand-painted pictures with the bill of motion pictures and illustrated songs will be the attraction next week. The talking pictures are novel and interesting. Each and every character in the picture speaks. It is just like seeing a play. Miss Marion Allen, a fairly excellent, will be seen Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. "Why, how cool it is!" This remark has been made by many who have attended the theatre since the warm weather. There are electric fans galore.

THERE WILL BE NO INDEPENDENCE DAY This Year

Nor any other year, for SHE who persists or is compelled to cook over a wood or coal fire; a wood or coal fire that is not hot soon enough; both of which are the lot later; neither of which can be controlled. As well try to cook out in the back-yard over a brush fire. Still the emancipation of Woman is at hand—in fact it has arrived in some cases. The price of Liberty is exactly the price of a modern Gas Range. Who was that woman who, standing on the threshold of her kitchen, uttered the words never to be forgotten: "Give me a Gas Range or give me death?" We forget, but the words were well chosen. They hit the mark and she still lives; lives as should every good, American woman, doing her cooking on an up-to-date Gas Range. She has the woman who cooks over a wood or coal fire beaten to a frazzle.

Don't frizzle over a wood or coal fire. Purchase an up-to-date Gas Range (we make the terms easy) and enjoy an Independence Day every day in the year.

CONFIDENTIAL—We are selling
ing many Gas Ranges, more than ever so many Gas Ranges, more than for special instruction. We are glad to aid you.

PLACED ON PROBATION

Young Man Was Charged With Drunkenness

William D. Carroll, a young man, was drinking beer on the latter's steps and he attempted to have her come home, but she refused to do so. He said that he was sober and in bed when the officer arrived.

He said that he had complained to Patrolman Whalen on various occasions that the officer had taken little stock in what he said, Carroll stated that he had told the officer that if the latter did not prevent his wife from drinking on other people's steps he would see Mayor Brown.

Patrolman Whalen upon being recalled admitted that he had seen Carroll's wife carrying beer, but never saw her drunk.

The court decided that the wife's drinking was in no small measure aggravating to the prisoner and placed the latter on probation.

Edward Coult, who it was stated is a good workman and has a good job, but who goes on protracted absences, was before the court for the third time within a period of one year. Judge Hadley decided that if the man made up his mind to quit drink and do what was right that he could, and decided to give him a trial. He was given suspended sentence of three months in jail and placed on probation for one year.

Matthew J. Reardon, a third offender, was sentenced to three months in jail.

James Mone, a second offender, was fined $5.

One pint of whiskey, 19 pints of ale and 15 empty ale bottles, seized at the place of John Smith in Braut, was declared forfeited to the state.

There was one $2 drunk.

John Brown, William Shoka and Charles Smith, charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace, were found guilty and each was fined $2 for drunkenness and $5 for disturbing the peace.

The case of William Shoka, Michael Mulbert and Andrew Lazowski, charged with assault and battery, was placed on the list of the court.

The case of Frederick W. Mills, charged with larceny, was continued for two weeks at the request of counsel.

LARGE DECREASE

In Exports From the United States

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A statement issued today by the bureau of statistics says that it is now apparent that the exports from the United States in the fiscal year which ends with the present month will fall materially below those of 1908 and 1907 and slightly below those of 1906.

From statistics compiled by the bureau the total value of domestic merchandise exported in 1908 was $1,335,000,000 dollars in 1907 $1,540,000,000 and in 1906 $1,715,000,000. The bureau estimates that the domestic exports for the full fiscal year 1909 will be nearly $200,000,000 below the average of 1908 and 1907 and perhaps $500,000,000 below 1906.

The cause of this marked decline in the export trade of the United States is ascribed to practically those which have produced similar conditions in other parts of the world—a reduction in the general demand for merchandise and a material reduction in the prices of certain of the more important articles exported.

A SNOW FLURRY

Novel Experience in Franklin County, N. Y.

MAHONE, N. Y., June 18.—A snow flurry in mid June was the novel experience of the residents of Duane and other sections of Franklin county early today. The air was sharp and cool as some days in early April. The snow continued to fall for only a short time and it disappeared as fast as it fell.

RATE WAR

BREAKS OUT AGAIN AMONG EASTERN RAILROADS

NEW YORK, June 18.—The import freight rate war of the eastern railroads has broken out afresh. It was learned today that at yesterday's meeting of the import committee of the trunk line association further cuts of 2 cents per hundred pounds in class freight and one cent per hundred in commodity freights were made to take effect Aug. 1.

This is the third reduction in class rates and the first in commodity rates since the beginning of the rate war last September.

The first class rate from Boston was originally 70 cents as against the present rate of 61 cents charged by the Boston & Maine railroad. The Baltimore rate was 97 cents and the scheduled rate to go into effect will reduce the rate at that point to 88 cents with corresponding cuts at this point, Philadelphia and other seaports.

TO REDUCE PRODUCTION

MANCHESTER, Eng., June 18.—At a meeting held here today of the master spinners using American cotton a resolution was passed unanimously in favor of reducing the production of yarn by stopping the mills all Saturdays and Mondays between July 10 and Sept. 27. It is hoped that these curtailments will improve trade.

Our Annual Sale of Black and Colored Mohairs

American women are largely in England's debt for the strong shimmering mohairs that are woven by the spinners of Bradford. These lustrous fabrics are in the gray when they leave the looms, but are converted into many colors and fancy effects by the art of dyer and designer. Their crisp, uncrushable, unwrinkable, brilliant qualities make them ideal for many summer dress uses.

GRAND LARCENY

Experts Testify in the Brandenburg Case

NEW YORK, June 18.—Expert testimony was introduced early in today's session of the trial of Broughton Brandenburg, the writer, on a charge of grand larceny.

The purpose of the evidence was to prove that the alleged forged letter of Grover Cleveland which Brandenburg sold to the New York Times last August was typewritten more than a month after Mr. Cleveland's death.

William Relek managing director of the Times identified the alleged forged signature of Mr. Cleveland as the one attached to the article when he had authorized its purchase from Brandenburg. In accepting the article he had relied on the genuineness of the signature.

Mr. Brandenburg had told him he testified on cross-examination that he (Brandenburg) had written parts of the article but that the whole had been signed by Mr. Cleveland.

When Mr. Relek was excused the disputed signature enclosed in a glass case was offered in evidence and over objection by the defense was admitted.

Richard Watson Glider who was a close friend of Mr. Cleveland testified that the signature alleged to have been clipped from the article sold by Brandenburg was not that of Mr. Cleveland. David N. Corvath, the handwriting expert testified that the signature was a forgery and in his opinion Brandenburg had written it.

FIREMAN COYNE

TELLS OF THE ATTACK ON BRITISH STEAMER

STOCKHOLM, June 18.—Coyne, the fireman on board the British steamer Woodburn of Newcastle that was fired upon in Plokipas bay Wednesday night by a vessel of the Russian squadron patrolling the rendezvous of Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William, sustained only slight injuries and probably will be able to leave the hospital in a few days. He declares that three other members of the crew sustained slight injuries from the Russian fire. Further details of the occurrence show that the Woodburn strayed during the night within the prohibited zone of navigation of Plokipas bay. Her captain evidently was unfamiliar with the published regulations. The Russian torpedo boat fired first three blank shots which were followed by four projectiles.

MEXICAN POLICE

MEXICO CITY, June 18.—That the Mexican people intend to do everything in their power to control the oil situation in this country is indicated by the formation of a $25,000 (Mexican money) company to be known as the Compania Mexicana de Petroleo el Aguila, S. A., the Mexican Eagle Oil Co., limited, and of which Guillermo Lande, governor of the federal district, is president.

The company has acquired all the concessions for the development, exploitation and marketing of native crude and refined oils as well as other kinds of products held by the firm of Pearson & Sons, limited. The directorate of the new corporation is composed of Mexicans with one exception. They are Enrique Creel, Pablo Macedo, Fernando Pluental, Lieut. Col. Porfirio Diaz, Jr., Enrique Tron, Luis Elguero and John B. Body. The last named is in charge of the Pearson interests in Mexico.

FOREMEN ACCUSED

Charged With Violation of the Minor Labor Law

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 18.—Proceedings were instituted in police court yesterday by Sheriff E. Burroughs in behalf of Henry C. Morrison, state superintendent of public instruction, against four foremen in mills and shops for alleged violation of the laws governing the employment of minors under the age of 16 years.

Specific charges are made against Herman Mergner of 3 Forest avenue, second man at the print works; William H. Stewart of 29 West Merrimack street, overseer of spinning in one of the Amoskeag mills; Arthur E. Emery, overseer in the Stark mills, and Owen G. Eastman of 497 Merrimack street, assistant foreman at McElwain's Printing shop factory.

The charges are made by Robert Mitchell of South New Market, deputy of the state superintendent. The respondents were represented by Edwin P. Jones and Robert L. Manning. A hearing was set for Monday morning in police court. Each of the defendants was held in $100 bail, which was furnished. One of the witnesses to the hearing Monday will be Frank O. Jones, Curtis Davis, who will be asked if he gave lines to any of the boys employed.

It is charged against Mergner that he employed Charles Boardman, who is said to be under the age of 16, and Stewart is charged with having employed Adelard Sney, a boy said to be under the legal age. Two complaints are lodged against Mr. Emery, one in the case of Francis Duggan, whom he is alleged to have employed on the 11th of the month and one against Anna Znoj on the 18th. Mr. Eastman is charged with having employed John Dyer, who is charged to be less than 16 years of age.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

WATERTOWN, June 18.—The excellent scores made in the qualifying round yesterday of the Massachusetts Golf association's seventh championship brought considerable interest to the match play today. The first round of which started this morning at the Oakley Country club under the most favorable weather. The first pair started off shortly before 10 o'clock.

As the qualifiers for the first round were regarded as the best in the state and as there were no upsets yesterday, keen contests were looked for and indeed some of the favorites there streamed enthusiastic followers of the game watching every stroke.

The match which attracted the most attention was that between A. L. White of Barnstable, former intercollegiate champion, and J. B. Hyland of the Vesper Country club of Lowell and one of the strongest players in the state. Both White and Hyland broke 59 yesterday in the qualifying round.

NEW BUILDINGS

Many Permits Issued at City Hall

Lowell's building boom continues, and new buildings are the order of the day. Included in the permits issued at the office of the inspector of lands and buildings at city hall today were the following:

To Alexina Bellemore, for the erection of a three tenement house in the rear of 46-48 Aiken avenue. The building will be 24 by 38, five room flats, and the estimated cost is $3150.

To Arthur Genest, for the erection of two houses in Sarah avenue near Phoenix avenue. One is a cottage house and the other a two family house, 24 by 50.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The Academy will open its summer season with a grand amateur performance in connection with its regular lecture program. The amateur bill will be different from any amateur performance ever given in Lowell. Adult amateurs and semi-professionals will appear in dramatic, musical and vaudeville acts, and will constitute a whole show in themselves. But in addition to the amateurs there will be a program of four reels of new motion pictures never before presented in Lowell, and including the latest films of the Pacific Pictures, Edison, Kalam and Biograph companies, which were released by the manufacturers yesterday. There will also be two illustrated songs and a series of Travellettes. The show today will run from 2 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30. The amateurs will appear tomorrow. Tomorrow a continuous show will be given from 2 to 10:30 o'clock with a great program of pictures, views and songs. During the summer the Academy will be open every Friday and Saturday and on Friday evenings a grand amateur night will be given.

The admission remains unchanged at five cents, an admission including a good seat. Reserved seats are five cents extra.

MATRIMONIAL

A wedding on a lawn with the air fragrant with the perfume of the flowers and the birds twittering in the leaves overhead, was the rather unusual scene presented at North Pelham last Wednesday afternoon when Mr. Penley Hill of Somerville, Mass., and Miss Julia A. Tuxbury of Cambridge, Mass., were made man and wife. The nuptial knot was tied under a bower of evergreen that had been tastefully arranged under the trees on the lawn surrounding the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Sadie Hill. Rev. J. L. Hixie performed the ceremony. Mr. George R. McKay was best man, and Mrs. Sadie Hill stood up with the bride.

QUA-TUXBURY

Mr. Stanley E. Qua of this city and Miss Annie May Tuxbury of Haverhill, were married last evening at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Lucy A. Tuxbury, in Portland street, Haverhill, Rev. Robert L. Wedge, pastor of the Portland Street Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The bride is an accomplished young woman and a favorite in the social circles of Haverhill. Mr. Qua is a rising young lawyer and is president of the common council. The ceremony was witnessed by many friends of the young couple including Dartmouth college classmates of Mr. Qua. Friends were present from Philadelphia, Boston, Haverhill, Lowell, Malden, Newburyport and other places.

FOR A LESS NOISY FOURTH.

The Boston police authorities did good work in suppressing unnecessary noise in the celebration of Bunker Hill day. They should adopt even more rigorous measures for a less noisy Fourth of July. The ceaseless din and roar of firecrackers is torturing to those who cannot get away from it. It should be stopped.

Our last Fourth in Lowell was somewhat less noisy than those of other years, but yet there is much room for improvement, and it is to be hoped that the police of our city will make an effort to suppress some of the needless carousing demonstrations. It will be many years before the observance of the Fourth can be brought to a basis of reasonable sanity.

AS TO PAYING FOR STREET WATERING.

The question of how street watering should be paid for is under discussion and has been submitted to the city solicitor for legal advice. Some people favor having the street watering paid for out of the general treasury by taxes levied on all real estate, but others, and we are inclined to favor their idea, hold that while all the streets are not watered, only the residents of those that are watered should be taxed for street watering. The street department is not prepared to water all the streets of the city regularly, and it would be unfair, therefore, to tax all real estate for street watering while only a portion of it received the benefit of street watering. Let the present rule remain under which those who benefit by the street watering have to pay the bill.

FOR AN INCOME TAX.

President Taft's message relative to an income tax covers the legal aspect of the case, and may result in a constitutional amendment if such be necessary to warrant congress in imposing such a tax. There is no doubt whatever that present conditions in this country make an income tax necessary first in order to prevent the dangerous accumulation of wealth in the hands of a few, and second, as a means of raising revenue from those best able to pay it.

It is the opinion of many constitutional lawyers in this country that an income tax can be levied if the law be properly drawn without any change in the constitution. As it is a very difficult thing to change the constitution and one that requires a great deal of time, it would be well to try the more practical method of authorizing the tax before resorting to that extreme.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF AFRICA

It is quite likely that as a result of the Roosevelt hunting tour more light will be turned on Africa and greater efforts made to develop its natural resources. Some parts of it, indeed a very considerable portion, is suitable for cultivation and colonization even where thus far only the natives hold sway. The Congo region has been in the public eye for sometime and there are conflicting stories as to the alleged cruelties practised there by the European masters. The time will soon come when even in Africa no power will dare treat the natives with the severity that has been the fixed rule for the past twenty-five years.

Recently the colony of Natal has voted to join the other British colonies, namely Cape Colony, Orange River Colony and the Transvaal. It requires considerable persuasion to have Natal join a union of states in which Dutch domination is likely to prevail, but the general progress was the deciding motive. It is remarkable that explorers cannot go far from the better organized settlements without encountering natives and tribesmen who never saw a white man. Among the uncivilized natives human sacrifice and cannibalism prevail, so that there is a great field for missionaries who are in search of martyrdom.

PUBLIC BATHS A NECESSITY.

The number of people, mainly children, drowned every summer in Lowell while bathing in the rivers or canals emphasizes the need of public baths. In a city of 100,000 people public baths is always a necessity. In Lowell some system of public baths could be established for a very reasonable sum. We have two rivers meeting near the business centre of our city, but both are so badly polluted that nobody can bathe in them without serious risk. The city is threaded by a system of canals, the cool waters of which are very inviting, especially to children. But their swift current is such that bathers can enter the canals only at the utmost peril. Even good swimmers cannot resist the rapid current, and as a result there are many drownings.

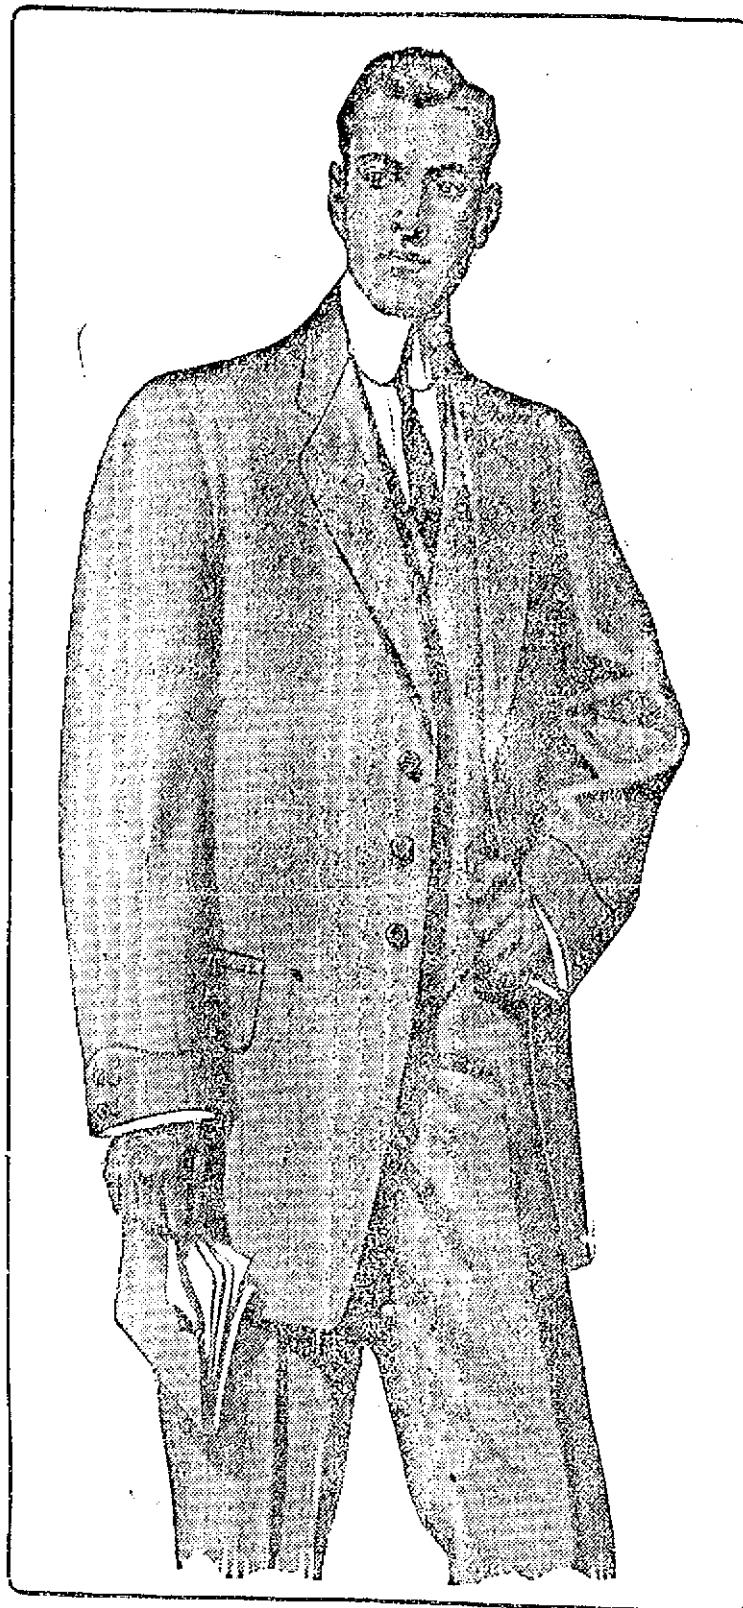

Can anything be done to prevent it? Other cities not as large as Lowell have solved the problem in a practical way by establishing a system of public baths, small at first but gradually developed until it fully met the needs of the community. That is what Lowell should do, and what must be done eventually if we are ever to stop paying this annual tribute of six or eight lives every summer. We are in great need of a philanthropist to make the start, but Lowell has few rich benefactors and thus far she has not been remembered in the bequests of many of her wealthy residents who have passed away.

Boston has an ideal system of public baths, some using fresh and some salt water. It is a great boon to the people who in addition can readily visit the beaches. The town of Brookline has a system of public baths that is ideal for a town and even such a beginning would serve for a city such as Lowell. What is needed is a swimming pond or tank made of cement bottom and sides and filled by the city water service. The dressing rooms could be arranged on all sides and might not be elaborate. What was needed is an inspiration from a practical builder or engineer who will plan the work and see that it is carried out.

Public baths would be a great aid in improving the public health and combating the white plague. When a man works in a factory in hot weather and is all sweated on getting through work, there is nothing so refreshing as a bath, nothing so uncomfortable as to go without a bath in such a case.

We are firmly convinced that a system of public baths would lessen intemperance because many of those who drink do so because of some uncomfortable feeling that would be overcome by facilities for bathing and is not overcome but rather increased by strong drink.

A WHIST PARTY

Was Held at St. Joseph's College

A very pleasant whist party and musical was held last night at St. Joseph's college, the affair being held under the auspices of Mrs. Frank M. Brown and Mrs. Homer L. P. Throckmold. The program was as follows: Misses: Robert Estlin, by MacDowell, and The Courtship of George, both were warmly enjoyed. Another very pleasant number was the "Serenade" from "Don Juan" sung by Mr. Wilfred Collier, Jr., who has a very fine bass voice. A duet, "After a long time," was sung by Miss Anna Bourassa and Mr. Collier. The program was a most successful one and a pleasant surprise was the playing of Mr. Kershaw and Mr. Arthur J. Leonard. Two choruses, "The Star Spangled Banner" and "O Canada," were sung by a choir of 30 young men, directed by Miss Bourassa. The program was a most successful one and a pleasant surprise was the playing of Mr. Kershaw and Mr. Arthur J. Leonard. Kershaw, pianists, contributed to the program. Miss Lavigne played "Ricochet" by Liszt, and Mr. Kershaw, "Nocturne" by MacDowell, and "The Courtship of George," both were warmly enjoyed. ful observation as long as the eclipse should be visible. Prof. O. C. Wendell was to have employed the largest Harvard telescope on the setting sun during the last 30 minutes of its visibility, which was about the period during which the moon's dark disk would have been seen gradually intervening between the earth and the sun. Not for a second, however, had he an opportunity to see any stage of the contact. Had the sky been clear the moon would have begun its contact with the sun at 6:35 p. m., advancing on the sun's disk from the left-hand edge, and the sun would have disappeared below the horizon, with the moon's dark form still advancing on its face, at 7:40. The eclipse would not have been seen so long as that, however, as the point of contact would by that time have got below the horizon. The only part of the world from which the sun would have been seen totally eclipsed was in Greenland and part of northern Asia. If he had a clear sky, Lieut. Peary, in northern Greenland, should have seen the eclipse in its totality, and perhaps he may prove to have been the only scientific man to do so.

Blanket of Clouds Hid It From View

Doubtless many persons felt disappointed for an eclipse of the sun is a rare thing in these parts, but those that had most reason for chagrin were astronomers at Harvard college observatory, Cambridge, who had plans made for a care-

SKETCHES AT THE VESPER-COUNTRY CLUB OUTING YESTERDAY

HELD LADIES' DAY

Grand Day's Outing at Vesper-Country Club

The Vesper-Country club house and its beautiful surroundings at Tyngs Island was the scene yesterday of a very animated and a very happy gathering. It was ladies' day, and more than 1000 people, members and guests, enjoyed the occasion, which is one of the very happy annual events of the club. Everybody knows of the picturesque of Tyngs Island and the cheerful location of the club house and grounds. It is an ideal spot and the day was ideal.

Those who enjoyed the day there came, some by auto, some by carriage and others by trolley. Those who came by trolley walked across the suspension bridge and straight whist were both indulged in. There were prizes for the winners in both tournaments.

Miss Ellen M. Weaver won the first prize in the straight-whist, with Mrs. Frank B. Kenney, second. In the bridge tournament, Mrs. Joseph Smith won first prize and Mrs. C. B. Redway second. In the evening, after 5 o'clock, lunch was served in the open. The tables were located under the trees and the supper hour was a very busy one, and there was some lively scampering for cover when an innocent little shower showed itself. After supper there was a concert by the American band, P. J. Burleigh, leader. The program was as follows:

March, "Chicago Tribune" (Chambers' version), "Light Cavalry" (Simpson's version), "Armstrong's Song" (De Koven).

Mr. C. S. Sturtevant, Intermezzo, "The Glow Worm" (Lincoln), Operatic Selection, "Marsella" (Lodovico), Ballad from the "Metropolitan" (Lodovico), (Intermission in minutes), Popular Number, "Remick's Hit No. 1" (Remick), "The Barn Dance" from "Fluffy Kilt" (Remick), Selection, "The Red Mill" (Herbert), Fugue, "Regulation" (Rever), Star Spangled Banner.

The undersigned take this method of expressing their gratitude and appreciation for the sympathy extended to them in the recent death of a beloved daughter and sister, Miss Maudie G. G. and for the many beautiful floral tributes.

GIVEN TO JURY

That George H. Brown is mayor, or by any political affiliation, but you must decide the case fairly between man and man.

"If you should come to the question of damages you have not had one bit of evidence that he has been damaged. Mr. Harrington did not aim to injure Brown personally; he simply wanted to warn the public not to elect him.

"Contrast the evidence of our witnesses with that of George H. Brown. Be not swayed by any sentiment for Brown. Remain true to your oaths and render a just verdict according to the law and the evidence."

Argument for Plaintiff

D. J. Murphy, counsel for plaintiff, then addressed the jury. After explaining the responsibility of the defendant in a libel suit to prove the truth and show an absence of malice, he said: "What evidence does Mr. Harrington present to show that Geo. H. Brown took money? There are only a few questions in this case, truth and malice. John H. Harrington had the privilege to come out as he did on the night before election. Mr. Harrington took the ground from under his own feet when he testified that for a week he discussed with his own how to defeat Brown. Then on the night before election they brought forth the most malicious articles ever written. If John H. Harrington was not malicious he never would have written it. Did he think that he would be brought to justice? No, he thought that this poor boy who sold newspapers and worked in the carpet mill and who served in the army of this great republic was going down in defeat.

"The main question is, does John H. Harrington know that George H. Brown accepted money, the others are immaterial.

"Take the testimony of Mrs. Margaret Fitzgerald, Geo. H. Brown was one of the officers who took liquor from her home." Mr. Murphy then reviewed her testimony. "The question is did she give Geo. H. Brown the money," continued counsel for the defense. "Can she be believed? She said that she was

WHAT IS ECZEMA?

A COMMON ERROR CORRECTED

An erroneous impression prevails that itching, burning Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Boils, etc., are only skin diseases, and must be treated externally. Hundreds of cases have come under our notice—and probably your experience is similar—where the person afflicted had the disease on the lobe of the ear and an eruption on the right ankle, while the other members of the body were absolutely free from vesicle, rash, or other outward manifestations, showing conclusively that the blood was poisoned and the poison found vent at the most vulnerable part of the person afflicted. Dr. Taylor's theory is that these diseases originate in the blood, and must be treated from that standpoint, not through the skin alone. This theory is amply proven by the thousands of people who have been permanently cured. Our Blood Purifier forces the poison to the surface of the skin, eliminates it wholly from the blood, and our germicide Lotion and Ointment restore the skin to a healthy and natural condition. New York Cloak and Suit Co.
12-18 JOHN STREET

served with a summons and afterwards she retracted her statement about the summons and said the paper served on her was a notice of forfeiture of liquor. "Was she telling the truth when she said she paid Brown?" If she was honest why did she wait till 1909 to say that she gave him the money? If it was true, which we deny, what becomes of John H. Harrington's story that was written Dec. 7, when Mrs. Fitzgerald did not make her story public until after the suit was brought?" Mr. Murphy charged that her motive was to injure George H. Brown.

Relative to the testimony of Mr. O'Connor, Mr. Murphy said there was only one way to fight fire and that is with fire, and a back fire was built on Harrington and Spillane. "In warfare you've got to use heroic measures. Any means taken to break down the contemptible work of newspapers is justifiable under the laws of this state."

"Character is greater than riches and a man's character must be protected."

Referring to the evidence of Mr. Spillane, counsel for the defense stated that Mr. Spillane left his position in the health department with a ranking in his heart. He goes out and gets evidence, not to help Harrington, but to get square with Brown. He met O'Connor and O'Connor being a friend of Brown threw Spillane off his guard and then reported to the mayor that Spillane said: "They're going to put up a job on him." The mayor did as any man would do; he advised O'Connor to get all the information out of them. There is not much difference in the stories of these except that the other two are trying to clear their skirts upon hearing O'Connor's testimony.

Mr. Murphy then referred to Mr. Harrington's testimony again, and finally showed the cartoon of Dec. 3, claiming that it showed malice.

Judge Pierce's Charge

In his charge to the jury Judge Pierce said: "The plaintiff says he has been injured in this community. It is admitted that the plaintiff was a candidate for office, and it is admitted that this article had its purpose to deter people from voting for this candidate. A publisher of a newspaper has no greater or no less rights than any individual. When a man becomes a candidate he says to the world, 'I submit myself to your examination. See what you can find out about me.' Every man then has the right and maybe he has the duty to say to his fellows what he finds about that candidate so far as he confines himself to the facts, and the inferences from the fact. He has the right to comment justly. He hasn't the right to go beyond fair criticism, and he hasn't the right to publish damaging criticism except that he shall have reasonable ground to believe it true and that he shall do so having at heart the interest of the people, for the public good. He must do it for a good motive. He shall publish it for a justifiable end, as in this case the defendant says, to keep out of office a man who would be a public menace."

"Now did Mr. Harrington publish this—to do good to the public of Lowell, or had he a purpose to injure this man? But it is said that the principal things complained of in this case, corruption and bribery, are true. In the matter of libel since 1835 truth is not a justification if actual malice is shown. The plaintiff claims that the defendant intended to harm him. The burden is on the defendant to establish the fact of the truth. If you find that he has then it becomes the plaintiff's burden to show the malice of the plaintiff."

His Honor then went into the matter of the law relative to damages after which he referred to the testimony of Mrs. Fitzgerald and that if the jury found that her testimony is true then that is a complete defense unless it is shown that he wrote the article for the purpose of harming the plaintiff."

His Honor referred to the testimony relative to a list of contributions for the Howe campaign stating that such a practice by an official is improper. Are these charges true? If they are, then if there was no malicious motive then the verdict goes to the defendant. If the charges are not true or if the article was written with malicious intent then the verdict goes to the plaintiff and you must award damages according to the extent to which he has been injured in your opinion."

In conclusion the court instructed the jury that this being a civil case the truth must be proven by a preponderance and not beyond a reasonable doubt.

The case went to the jury at 11.25. Yesterday's session will be found on page four.

MORE LOTS NOT ADVERTISED.

BEGINNING Sunday, July 4, 1909, and ending Friday, July 9, the tercentenary of the discovery of Lake Champlain by the Frenchman who was the first white man to see the body of water which bears his name will be celebrated.

Canada will be represented by officials from the Dominion, the United States by President Taft, New York state by Governor Hughes and Vermont by Governor George H. Prouty. A Champlain day devoted to commemorative exercises will be observed in the public schools in the state of New York some time in June.

President Taft, with other distinguished guests and members of the commission from New York and Vermont, will be entertained by Smith M. Weed of Plattsburg, N. Y., Wednesday, July 7. Preceding this, the persons named are referred to will be the guests of Colonel Robert M. Thompson at Ticonderoga Monday, July 5. By recent arrangements the march of mounted troops from Fort Ethan Allen to Ticonderoga will be represented by the Canadian vessels will be represented during the commemorative exercises. The Hon. Charles Langille, high sheriff of Quebec, will enact the part of Champlain in the pageants to be presented each day of the celebration on a floating island. The secretary of the navy has promised the commission to send torpedo boats and submarines to the exercises.

The Ticonderoga, the largest steamer on the lake, will carry President Taft, Vice President Sherman, Speaker Cannon, the British and French ambassadors, Earl Grey, governor general of Canada, and other officials around the lake to the various points at which celebrations will be held. Boats manned by the naval militia will escort the Ticonderoga on her trips. The events of the week will occur as follows: At Crown Point, July 5; Ticonderoga, July 6; Plattsburg, July 7; Burlington, July 8; and at the Isle la Motte July 9.

The most novel feature of the affair will be an island which is now being built to order and which will be completed in time for the chain of events. This island will abound in trees, bushes, rocks and a gravel beach. It will be an island without foundation. The reason for this will be readily understood when it is stated that the island is to be floating in its character and will be towed about from one point to another to play its part in the entertainment. A wooden stockade and Indian wigwags will be features of the island. Two hundred Indians will come down from upper Canada and give a semblance of reality to the exercises. These Indians are descendants of the very members of the Algonquin tribe with which Champlain warred against the Iroquois. They will take part in sham battles that will be waged daily about the island. These battles will be historically correct reproductions of a conflict between Champlain's forces and his Indian enemies. The same Indians will produce on the island each day a pageant which is their own version of the legend of Hiawatha, and from one of the most picturesque rocky crags a modern Hiawatha will plunge into the water of Lake Champlain. This is not the Hiawatha of Longfellow, of course; but as white men have different conceptions of many events in their history or legends, the Indians are entitled to theirs.

The sham battles will take place on a marble stage 215 by 163 feet built on six barges towed together by native Indians. It is provided that, in addition to the Indians referred to, there will appear 500 French Canadian Indians in native costume. Besides these features, there will be recitations of poems, addresses and land parades. In the latter several regiments will participate.

Champlain's Beauty and History.

The event will bring to the mind of the people a knowledge of one of the most beautiful and interesting sections of the country. To those who have not been there and who may not be familiar with the history which the tercentenary will commemorate it may be of interest to learn that not only does the country in question abound with the story of predatory savages and the bloody scout of the frontier, but it was the bone of contention, the key to Canada, for which the representative armies of the two great Anglo-Saxon races fought. Before the settlement of Canada by the French the Iroquois occupied the territory south of the St. Lawrence river and were to be found in great numbers around Montreal and in the valley of Lake Champlain. At one time they had been driven from these hunting grounds by the Adirondacks, who then lived near the "three rivers," but they in turn had driven back the Adirondacks out of their old haunts to a position quite a distance below Quebec. For 200 years prior to the war of 1712 the Lake Champlain territory was the scene of almost continual strife and contention, and the stories of those stirring times have come down to the present generation.

History lurks in every nook of the Lake Champlain country. From South bay, in 1775, Baron de Dieskau with an army of 1,500 French and Indians went out against the English at the head of Lake George. The fort erected at Ticonderoga was called Fort Carillon. The French also built fortifications at Crown Point in 1731. On their subsequent retreat to Canada they destroyed the fort, Frederic, and upon the arrival of the English General Amherst erected a larger fort. The small bay on the opposite side of the lake, about ten miles from Crown Point, is of interest to Americans. It was in this bay that Benedict Arnold burned his galley and five gondoles after his engagement with the English, Oct. 12, 1776. A little farther north Macdonough fitted out the fleet with which he won the victory of Sept. 11, 1814, the exact point being Otter creek. Here 200 men repulsed a large British force that had been sent out to destroy the American fleet that was fitting out at Vergennes.

Travelers to Lake George have had pointed out a gem known as Sloop Island. It takes its name from the English war vessel that fired upon it during the Revolution, mistaking a tree that stood there for a mast.

At Essex falls Burgoyne gave a feast to 400 Indians just before he made his assault upon Ticonderoga. At Schuyler Island Benedict Arnold collected his fleet Oct. 12, 1776, after his retreat from Valcour Island, where there was fought a spirited naval engagement with a British fleet. Plattsburg was the scene of a great land and naval battle. These are not all, but they constitute the more important places in the war history around the beautiful country.

The program of the exercises beginning July 4 will give the reader an idea of the scope of the commemoration. The fetes commences at Burlington, on the Fourth with special religious observance. Champlain was a devout adherent of the Catholic faith. In view of this, the religious services will be under the supervision of that church. Cardinal Gibbons and a large body of the clergy, including a delegation from the Canadian hierarchy, will participate in the elaborate observances.

The holiday proper will begin at Crown Point Monday, July 5. Here are the ruins of a fort which figures in the history of the French and Indian wars and the Revolutionary war. At this point there will be literary exercises, and the pageant will be presented in the afternoon and again at night. During the week there will be presented at these various points twenty-four pageants, or tableaux, nine representing the history of the Iroquois confederacy down to the arrival of the Dutch in this section of the country and fifteen illustrating the religious ceremonies and social customs of the Iroquois and Algonquians in war and peace. The most interesting of the subjects to be depicted are perhaps the two chief incidents in the progress of the explorer—namely, his discovery of the lake which bears his name and the battle between the Huron-Algonquin allies and the fighting Iroquois, in which he had a hand.

The Indians' pageant of the Indian drama, written specially for the event, will be repeated on the floating island at Ticonderoga, the island being towed from Crown Point to "Old Tip" about twenty miles south. Here the Pellis, multimillionaire of New York, are reconstructing from ancient cuts and documents the famous fort that was the scene of brave old Ethan Allen's memorable coup in 1775. The governor of New York and the New York legislature and the governor of Vermont will be present at this event.

Alfred C. Bosson of New York city is the architect of the plans for "Old Tip's" restoration. Wednesday, July 7, is Plattsburg's day. Near that city Benedict Arnold fought and lost the first naval action of the American Revolution. His flagship, the Royal Savage, has been lying where she sank in that fight for 133 years. What remains of the old fighter is in a fair state of preservation. It is a part of the program to raise the hull and rig it up so as to give it a place in the show. The barge Revenge, one of the fleet, has been raised and will be in the pageant. It was at Plattsburg that McComb on land and Macdonough on water won their victory Sept. 11, 1814, which earned them the thanks of congress and the gold medal of the nation. President Taft and his party and the French ambassador and Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be entertained at a hotel on the 7th. A banquet, water sports, fireworks and illuminations will occur in conjunction with the other events of the occasion.

The pageant, with all of its incidental attractions, will be repeated at Burlington, Vt., on Thursday, July 8. Vermont's old home week will be observed at the same time. Friday, July 9, the celebration will be continued at Isle la Motte, near the head of the lake. This place is where Champlain first encamped. Besides the pageant at this point, there will be patriotic exercises conducted by the Daughters of the American Revolution and Colonial Dames. These exercises will include the dedication of a bowl to the memory of the Revolutionary heroes Colonel Seth Warner and Captain Remember Baker. Warner was second in command under Allen in the taking of Ticonderoga, and on the day following he took Crown Point. He was also with Montgomery in Canada. Baker was a scout and was killed while doing duty.

St. Albans and other towns in the Champlain valley will also observe the occasion. The lake has water connections with the Hudson, and two torpedo boats are to be sent through the connection to take part in the events, and the war department will exhibit its dirigible balloons at Burlington. The Proposed Memorial.

It has been suggested that the memorial to perpetuate the discovery of Lake Champlain take the form of a lighthouse, and a design has been submitted. The plan provides for the erection of the lighthouse, a museum and a heroic size statue of Champlain, the whole to cost roughly $50,000. The site proposed is in Vermont, close to the boundary line of New York, and is near the site of historic Fort St. Anne and the shrine of St. Anne, to which pilgrimages are made annually.

It is the intention to convert the whole government reservation of about one acre into a big plaza. In the center of which, from a stone platform a hundred feet square, will rise the circular tower of the lighthouse, surmounted by the light at a distance of 146 feet above the level of the lake. Near the base of the lighthouse, on a pedestal forty feet above the level of the lake, will stand a heroic size statue of Champlain made of bronze and nineteen feet high.

Champlain was born in Brouage, Saintonge, on the bay of Biscay, in 1567 and died in Quebec at the age of sixty-eight. He was the son of a ship captain and received a careful education as a navigator. He also served in the army. His first voyage to America was to the West Indies in 1593, and during this expedition he landed at Vera Cruz, proceeded inland as far as the City of Mexico and returned by way of Panama. He was, so far as known, the first man to conceive the idea of a ship canal across the Isthmus of Panama. It has taken more than 300 years to put the plan in the way of realization. It was in 1593 that he sailed for America with authority from King Henry IV. of France to explore lands and found a colony. On this expedition he sailed up the St. Lawrence as far as the rapids of St. Louis, above the present city of Montreal. He continued his explorations and made several experiments in colonization and returned several times to France and in 1694 began the building of the town which grew in time to be the city of Quebec. It was the year following that he undertook the expedition which resulted in the discovery of Lake Champlain.

MATTERS OF INTEREST.

October a War Month.

October has always been an abundant harvest time for war. On Oct. 14, 1066, was fought the battle of Hasting. On Oct. 14, 1755, the whole Saxon army of King Frederick capitulated, and two years later, on the same day, the king was beaten by the Austrians at Hochkirch. Forty-eight years after, on Oct. 14, 1806, Napoleon was routed by Prussia. On Oct. 17, 1893, Napoleon commenced his new career of victories. On Oct. 17, 1905, the Austrians were defeated at Umm; the same date in 1914 witnessed the retreat from Moscow. On Oct. 29, 1827, was fought the battle of Navarino, and Oct. 21, 1895, was the never to be forgotten victory of Trafalgar.

The Age of Animals.

According to a well known British naturalist, the average length of life of animals is as follows:

The rabbit lives from six to seven years.
The cat from fifteen to seventeen years.
The dog from sixteen to eighteen years.
The bear eighteen to twenty years.
The rhinoceros from twenty to twenty-two years.
The horse from twenty-two to twenty-five years.
The mule and cow sixty years.
The tortoise 110 years.
The eagle 150 years.
The elephant 400 years.
The whale 1,000 years.

Inches in Land and Water.

An acre is 6,272,640 square inches. An inch of water on an acre is therefore 6,272,640 cubic inches. That amount, at 2.2 cubic inches to the gallon, equals 2,806 gallons, or 220,000 pounds, or a hundred tons. An inch of rain is, in other words, rain falling at the rate of a hundred tons to the acre.

Conning Towers of Chicago.

The aerial conning tower is the latest device of the Chicago department of smoke inspection. Its value consists chiefly in that the owner of the offending chimney can be notified immediately by the inspector stationed in the lookout.

No High Notes in Canada.

A new American hymnal has been provided for use by the Canadians because, owing to climatic conditions, they are unable to sing the high notes of the English hymnal.

Where Census is Easy.

Westminster is the most thickly populated of any British country. It has only one inhabitant to every four acres of its surface.

Sidewalk of Human Teeth.

An American dentist is said to be constructing a sidewalk of human teeth which he has extracted in the past twenty years.

Fighters on Peace Feeding.

The peace feeding of the armies of the civilized world is in all 4,000,000 men.

Motors for Coffins.

A burial association in Paris has automobiles arranged for the transportation of coffins.

CHILDREN FARMING IN THE CITY

Five Hundred From the Tenement Districts Planting and Cultivating Crops on a Crowded Rim of the Metropolis

DOWN at the foot of Fifty-third street, on the rim of the bustling and everlastingly rushing of New York city, looking out on the Hudson river, lies the children's farm of the great metropolis. The correct name is the Children's School farm. The site used to be a rubbish heap and dumping ground. That was eight years ago. The sun of the summer blistered it; the cold winds of winter chilled it. Nothing in its bleak and cheerful aspect indicated that it would ever nurture a plant of the harvest sort.

A problem presented itself to the city. What was to be done with its children who live in the tenement districts? Those who had any tendency to tuberculosis were special objects of consideration. Such as these required the air. Unless they were uncoupled they would perish in the shadow of plenty. The problem interested a woman, Mrs. Henry Parsons. She tackled it out. She got the attention of the city fathers. The amount of money obtained was not large, but it was enough to get the farm under way. The appropriation is $34,000 a year. Mrs. Parsons is working along this amount, believing that the seed that is being done will eventually induce private contributions which will enlarge her fund.

The farm is an adjunct to De Witt Clinton park. It is not a farm in the sense of the word as understood in the farming portions of the country, but when one takes into consideration the almost fabulous value of land in New York city one acre set aside for farming is extensive. This acre is subdivided 500 times into tiny lots 4 by 8 feet, with intersecting paths. In this inclusive 500 children between the ages of eight and fourteen grade, read and cultivate the plants. To be exactly correct, they farm. What they produce is theirs, and they do it all for the fun they get out of it.

So eager are these little ones for an opportunity to get out of the house and the dirt of the tenement districts that they compete for the opportunity. Each applicant must register in order to become a farmer, and the number place in July there are 500 new farmers. In order to allow for irregularities in attendance the enrollment is 600. Each plot contains seven articles—radishes, beans, peas, beets, carrots, lettuce and corn. Two stalks of corn are allowed to each bed, and these are placed in the center. Asked why there are two stalks, the head farmer replies that one might fall. It is all right on a city farm. In the observation plots, cultivated in common, are grown wheat, broom corn, okra and rice. Some of the squashes raised in these plots would show up well at a county fair.

When it rains these little farmers are still busy. In a great building in the farm are vegetables in all stages of growth, from the seed to the fully developed plant. Stereoscopic views re-enforce what is learned in that way. Nothing that gives thoroughness to knowledge is omitted or neglected.

Back of the farming idea is another that will eventually count for the farmer. A social question is involved.

By the work the little farmers do on the community flower beds, paths and observation plots. Twice a week the crippled children go to the farm to tend the score or more of plots allotted to them. The work is always done cheerfully. Most of these cripples are unable to stand, and it is a touching sight to see them lie flat on their faces while at work.

Farming is not the only thing taught on this tiny acre. Housekeeping is one of the adjuncts. Even the boys have the privilege of preparing for the table the vegetables they have raised. One of the great benefits derived from this city farming is the opportunity it gives the children to obtain work later on in the country. In some cases the parents have followed the children, and in this way the benefit is doubled, for to many parents getting out of the crowded city is not only a godsend to them, but it means the health and well being of the children.

The city farm has already received the endorsement of the international tuberculosis congress and has been approved by the practical farm workers and the department of agriculture at Washington. The proposition is far-reaching. It saves the lives of the pentup children of the city, and it gives the country what the country is calling for—workers who are familiar with what is required in the great agricultural sections.

Mrs. Parsons, who formulated the idea of a city farm for children, is an earnest about the problem and an enthusiastic as to its results. "My feeling is," she said, "that the solution of more than one great national question like the conservation of our forests, for instance, hinges on the school garden movement. The child must know what nature's resources are before he can become intelligently anxious to conserve them."

But the children are given an understanding of individual property ownership. The selfishness into which the sense of ownership often develops is offset

BIG AUTO RACE

Was Started at Crown Point, Ind.,
Today

CROWN POINT, Ind., June 18.—The first of the western Vanderbilt auto race was run today in perfect June weather and over a track as smooth as time, money and men could make it. The withdrawal of the Ford car yesterday was followed today by that of Art Grenier's Renault. It was hoped to the last that the Renault's broken transmission which kept it from weighing in yesterday could be repaired. Early today, however, Grenier surrendered. He left the hospital and has had nothing but ill luck.

Today's race was over ten laps, approximately 250 miles each for the Indiana trophy. The specifications limited entrants to light cars. Tomorrow twelve big cars will contest for the Cobb cup, the big event of the meet.

Leaving the grand stand the machines flashed away over a straightaway north of 1.1 miles where a sharp turn brought them into one of the principal residential streets of Crown Point, for a spurt of 1.1 miles. At the end of a stretch they turned to the northwest for an irregular four mile run to Cedar lake. On this leg there are three sharp corners and three easy ones including the picturesque "S". At Cedar lake there begins a straightaway of 3.1 miles. The road is rolling but the grade is gradually descending all the way to Lowell. At Lowell after passing a viaduct the road takes a sharp turn to the east. Half a mile out it turns sharply around a cemetery and then is a straightaway for three miles. Thence north again there is a straightaway of 1.1 miles which brings the cars past the grand stand.

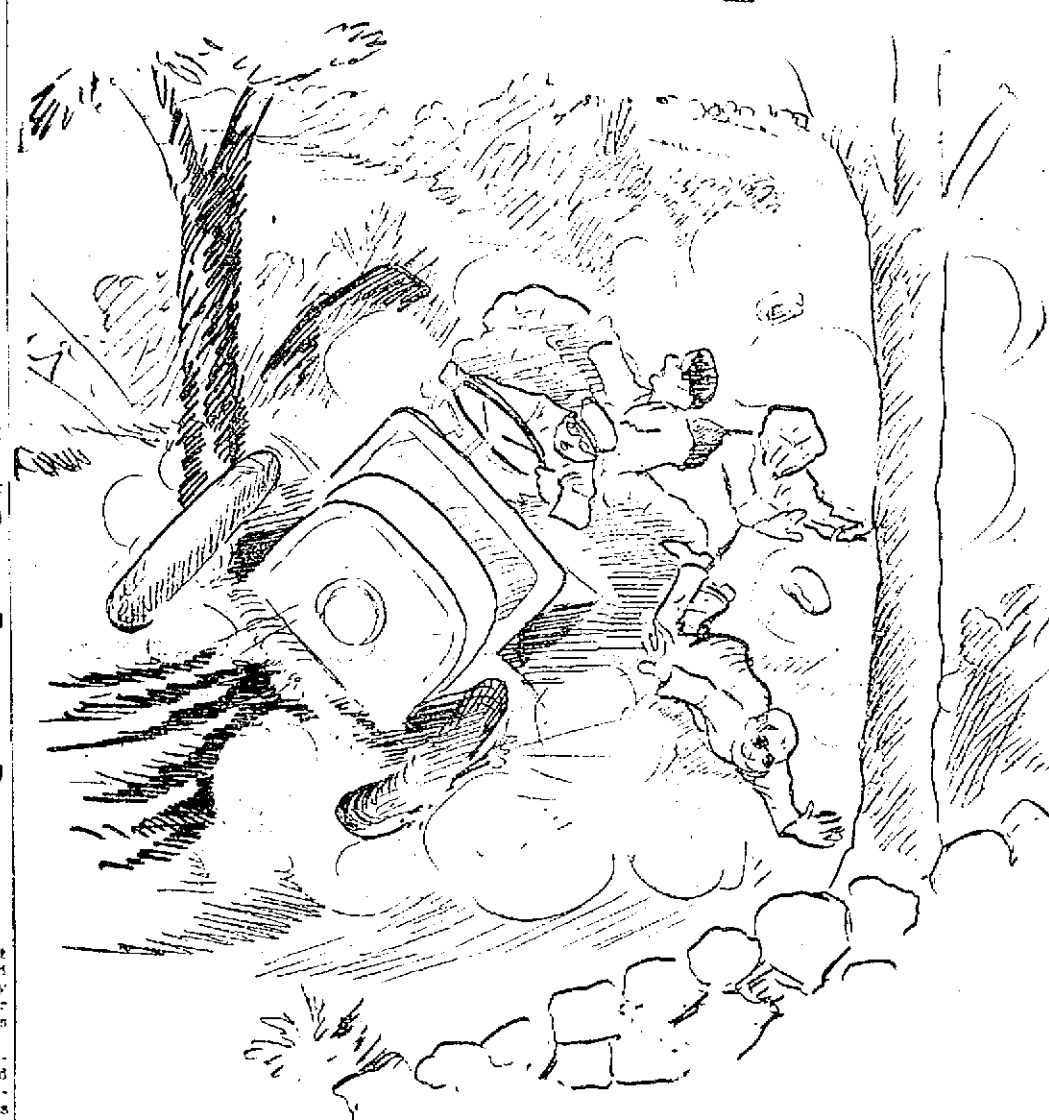

The first segment of the race arrived last night and camped through the town to the grand stand where they pitched the shelter tents. So great was the rush of business that every available sleeping space last night was occupied and motorists were forced to wait about until it was time to go to the course. Many women spent the night in the comfort of their cars or in specially improvised camps.

The business grand stand began to fill early and at 6 o'clock dozens of other cars had been driven to the already taken their places.

GOULD CASE

NEW YORK, June 18.—The prosecution of servants and employees of Mr. and Mrs. Gould to the witness stand continued today. Since the first day early in the week when the plaintiff lost control of her feelings and wept during a merciless recital of offenses, the defendants Mrs. Gould has been herself well in hand, merely expressing her disapproval of the testimony by a determined shake of her head or an incredulous smile.

Mr. Nicol, the defendant's counsel, said today there was a possibility that he would reach his client during the day and call Mr. Gould to testify in his own behalf. Mr. Sharn, the plaintiff's counsel, promised a severe legal examination of Mr. Gould if this should happen.

The Kaiser and Czar Exchange Toasts

BERLIN, June 18.—The toast exchanged between Emperors William and Nicholas on the Russian imperial standard last night was cordial. "I assure your majesty," said the Russian emperor, "that I cherish the sincere wish ever to maintain the traditional relations of hearty friendship and mutual trust that have always united our two houses and the cultivation of which I strongly desire not merely as a pledge of the good relations of our two countries, but of the general peace."

In reply Emperor William said: "I am rejoiced to see in this hearty reception a new and valuable confirmation of our sincere personal friendship. It is in it also fresh confirmation of the traditional relationship of cordial friendship and confidence, which responding to the manifold interests and thoroughly peaceful sentiments of our two countries exists between our governments."

Mr. Henry Berry, a well known Boston lawyer and son-in-law of Mr. Breed, who was also in the car, escaped with minor bruises, as did the chauffeur. Both were treated at the residence of George Stone in Littleton by Dr. Godfrey of that town.

There is a difference of opinion as to the cause of the accident. The occupants of the car claim that the skidding of the machine at the rate of speed at which it was going, about 60 miles an hour, caused the car to turn turtle, though people who witnessed the accident are of the opinion that some part of the steering gear broke which caused the chauffeur to lose control and the machine to skid.

The few people who witnessed the accident claim that when they first saw the machine, the front wheels were wobbling about the road as though the chauffeur had lost control, though the latter was making desperate attempts to steady the front wheels and bring the machine to a stop.

When the emergency brakes were applied the rear wheels of the car dug the ground for a distance of about 100 yards.

The car did not come to a stop until it struck a huge tree on the side of the road. The machine was overturned and the occupants were thrown out.

Coming from Templeton Mrs. Berry, Mr. Breed's daughter, summers at the Templeton Inn in Templeton, Mass., which is 19 miles this side of Andover. Inasmuch as yesterday was a holiday in and around Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Breed and Mr. Berry decided to visit the Inn and Wednesday went over the road in their big touring car and spent yesterday with Mrs. Berry.

As Mr. Breed and Mr. Berry had to return this morning they left the Inn about six o'clock in their automobile. Besides Messrs. Breed and Berry there were Mrs. Breed and the chauffeur.

Travelled at Fast Speed The car, which is a very high powered one, was going along the route at a fast rate of speed, the ground being covered at the rate of sixty miles an hour excepting when passing through the thickly settled parts of towns.

The road is a good straight stretch and when this place was reached the chauffeur was thrown wide open and the car was burning up the road when it began to skid. The chauffeur, finding that he was losing control of the machine, applied the brakes cautiously in order not to bring the car to a sudden stop. Then he realized he could not control the front wheels with the steering wheel.

He immediately applied the emergency brakes, but without avail, for the machine was at that time wobbling from side to side and about one hundred yards from the place where he took a sudden trip to the side of the road and against a large tree, and was overturned.

Mr. Reed was thrown against the tree and instantly killed.

Dr. Godfrey Sumner

Dr. Godfrey of Littleton was needed and he arrived on the scene shortly after the accident as did others who lived near.

A full examination of Mr. Reed showed that he was dead and Dr. Godfrey turned his attention to the other occupants of the car. Mrs. Breed was unconscious, while Mr. Berry and the chauffeur were badly bruised and shaken up, but able to assist themselves.

As Mrs. Reed was thought Mrs. Reed was the cause of death, but she died after further examination that she would live.

The police placed the woman in an ambulance and had her driven to top level in the car, where she was taken to the Lowell General Hospital. The doctor examination at the hospital was that the cause of death was a fracture of the right ankle, fracture of the right wrist, minor bruises, and was badly shaken up. It is not thought

55 WERE INJURED

During Observance of Bunker Hill Day

BOSTON, June 18.—The maimed and injured in the re-fought battle of Bunker Hill yesterday came near rivaling, if not exceeding, that of the actual battle of 1774, even as the uproar of the early morning hours was comparable with the din of musketry and shouts of foe and friend in the historic contest. Fifty-five injured were treated at the hospitals of Boston up to an early hour in the evening and an even greater number had been treated by physicians and others at their homes. Fortunately, there were no serious wounds.

Charlestown's great day closed last night with an electric pageant which far exceeded in beauty and elaborateness any previous exhibition of the kind. A dozen or more floats, bearing the leading beauties of the city arrayed in fantastic costumes, passed through the main streets of Charlestown over the trolley car tracks during three hours of the evening. The pageant was emblematical of the "sons of the world," and the floats in turn represented the brilliancy and lustre of the diamond, ruby, emerald, garnet, amethyst and kindred precious stones. Miss Hattie Turnbull, as last year, was the queen of the carnival and rode on a dais in the diamond float. It was estimated that fully 100,000 people witnessed the display.

APPENDICITIS.

The most dreaded disease of civilization is the condition known as appendicitis. Once fully established, nothing will remedy but the knife. It was once thought that this inflammation was caused by acids of foreign bodies entering the appendix, but this theory is now exploded.

The true cause of appendicitis is inflammation of the bowels, constipation and the mucus which is formed in consequence of indigestion. It is caused by the bacteria which are found in the bowels. Now to avoid this formation of gas, germs, constipation and the resulting inflammation, take

BRITISH SCHOONERWas Driven Ashore on Cutty-hunk Island TodayCUTTYHUNK, June 18.—A northwest squall drove the British two-masted schooner Hartley W. ashore on the northwest end of the island today,
and it was with difficulty that a volun-

assistance.

The Hartley W. left New York early
in the week for Yarmouth, N. S., and
had light fair weather until last night
when a southeast storm sprang up.
The little schooner anchored under the
lee of the island during the night but
just after daylight the wind suddenly shifted and her anchor chains, parting
the vessel was driven onto the rocks
off the northwest end of the island
where she began to pound heavily.The regular station crew being off
on the annual two months' vacation
Capt. Rich of the station for the second time in a week gathered a volunteer crew and launched the lifeboat.It was a stiff pull against the head-seas to the scene and the best of seamanship was required to work the lifeboat alongside the schooner, and
catch the six men as they jumped into the big comb. One by one they were hauled on board the lifeboat, the last man being Capt. Wasson, who is also a part owner of the vessel.The crew were much exhausted
when they finally landed here but
found ready shelter and warm food and

clothing at the homes of the island-

ers.
The revenue cutter Acushnet reached
the scene shortly before noon but the
seas were so heavy that it was found
impossible to send a line to the strandered vessel. Later the weather moderated and there seemed to be a chance to reach her.The Hartley W. was built at Port Greville, N. S., in 1903 and owned in part by a Capt. Wasson and others.

TO WITHDRAW APPEAL

BERLIN, June 18.—Diezukunft this week publishes certain letters exchanged between Count Hugo Von Moltke and Maximilian Harden, the editor of the periodical, in which the latter agrees to withdraw his appeal
against the fine imposed by the lower
court in consideration of a letter from
the count, expressing regret for certain
statements made in court reflecting
upon Harden. The Harden-Von Moltke case, which grew out of the "Round Table" scandals of 1907, is thus brought to an end.The retrial of Prince Philip Zu En-

gold bonds, running 100 years, to the amount of $500,000,000, to encourage irrigation, reclamation and water, protect forests and build na-

stupendous sum of money will be no

necessary railroads and improve the

FOUND GUILTY

Boston Business Men Found Guilty
of Conspiracy and LarcenyBOSTON, June 18.—Of the nine local business men and lawyers charged
with conspiracy and larceny in the sale and exchange of small stores or
"business chances" five were found
guilty in the superior court today and
two turned state's evidence, one was found not guilty and in the last one
the jury disagreed. Charles S. Stuart
who was regarded as the principal in the case and William Swett were found guilty of both conspiracy and larceny. A. E. Sampson, F. G. Holcomb and J. H. McKim of conspiracy turned state's evidence. G. H. Stuart
was found not guilty while in regard to Henry Hayes, a lawyer, the jury disagreed.A charge of larceny in one count. The nine men were indicted last winter
and the cases occupied two weeks during which the defendants were charged
with inducing a number of small proprietors to mark up the value of their property and dispose of it, taking as
pay real estate which proved to be of
much less value.

GRADUATES

Today is the last day of the school year, and to many it is the last school day. But whether that be so or not, you will receive as a reward for your years of labor a diploma which you will be anxious to keep. After you have shown it to your parents, roll it up carefully and bring it over to us, and for a very small cost we will frame it so it will always look just as fresh and clean as it does when you get it. We make special prices for framing diplomas brought in on or before Saturday, June 26.

BEDROOM OF
IMPERIAL SUITE

DINING ROOM ON THE GEORGE WASHINGTON

NEW YORK, June 18.—The new steamship George Washington of the North German Lloyd line, the largest German transatlantic liner afloat, will reach New York on June 29. The American ambassador to Germany, Dr. Jayne Hill, christened the new ship in honor of the first president of the United States, and while she is at New York on her maiden visit to the western hemisphere a bronze tablet to the memory of Washington will be unveiled on board. Mrs. William Cummings Story, state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will be in charge of the ceremonies and President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton will deliver an address. The George Washington is fitted with every modern convenience known to ocean travel. Her furnishings and interior decorations are largely in colonial style, and in striving to carry out this idea, the company sent a corps of artists to this country to study Washington, so that the furnishings and the magnificent pictures that adorn the assembly rooms of the steamship might be authentic. The vessel is 722 feet 5 inches in length, beam 78 feet depth from upper saloon deck 54 feet and depth from awning deck 80 feet. She made an average speed of 20 knots an hour on her trial trip.

$15,000 VERDICT

Rendered in Favor of
Mrs. Laxton

BOSTON, June 18.—Mrs. Sarah L. Laxton was awarded $15,000 damages against Mrs. Lilla O. Day for the alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, Dr. John W. R. Laxton, by a jury in the first session of the superior court yesterday before Judge Presbiden.

She sued for $10,000 but on motion of counsel the case went to the jury without a writ and after the verdict was returned the judge allowed the plaintiff to amend the writ fixing the amount at $15,000.

She was separated from her husband in 1907. Later she obtained a divorce and attorney from him. The defendant has worked for the doctor for years. He has offices in Boston and Lynn and from the testimony takes in about $100 a day. He is an herb doctor.

He was a witness for the defendant. He denied that he influenced him against his wife. He said his wife had accused him of buying dresses for other women and they separated in 1904. She slapped his face 24 years ago and they never were friendly after that.

He was held for contempt at the close of court Wednesday for calling counsel for the plaintiff a cur during cross-examination. The hearing on the contempt charge was put over until Tuesday.

The defendant had denied having had any improper relations with the doctor or having tried to influence him against his wife. The jury was out about an hour and a half.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Flynn. Mr. Kennedy will be supported by a strong and evenly balanced company including Antoinette Smet, Minnie Stanley, Agnes Lee, Doris Kennedy, Chas. Bouton, Henry Walters, Joe. Foley, Peter Maguire, Thomas Burns and others, and will present a varied line of plays during the summer, and Mr. Kennedy will present some of his new songs in his inimitable manner each week.

The opening play for the week of June 21st will be "Sheridan Keene," a comedy drama replete with startling situations and in which Mr. Kennedy is seen in one of his very best roles. "Sheridan Keene" will be the bill for the entire week.

Matinees will be given every day commencing Tuesday. Reserved seats for all performances will be on sale at Carter & Sherburne's drug store one week in advance.

THEATRE LA SCALA

No picture shown in Lowell within the past three months has proved the big surprise that "The Foundling" has at the Theatre La Scala. Its story is clean, full of real men and women and it teaches a fine lesson in forgiveness. The woman deserts her child because of necessity and in a later years when she is a prosperous star actress she finds that the man she loves has adopted her own child. Of course the three take up a happy family in the end. "The Foundling" is guaranteed to bring the laughs from any one and "A Heroic Subject" is a second first quality comedy. "Three are the pictures of interest besides the songs Miss Tessie sings. "Redhead" and Charlie Rogers just hit it right with "The White Wash Man."

STAR THEATRE

Today new motion pictures, since Wednesday, were on the program at the Star Theatre. The cinematograph reproduced Blanche Ring's highly pictorial and the "Lull" scene from "Piff, Paff, Puff" and the "Lull" scene will not be at the theatre after Saturday, it having had a two weeks' engagement.

Talking pictures and vaudeville, in conjunction with the bill of motion pictures and illustrated songs will be the attraction next week. The talking pictures are novel and interesting. Each and every character in the picture speaks. It is just like seeing a play. Miss Marion Allen, a dainty comedienne, will be seen Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Why, how cool it is!" This remark has been made by many who have attended the theatre since the warm weather. There are electric fans going

THERE WILL BE NO INDEPENDENCE DAY This Year

Nor any other year, for SHE who persists or is compelled to cook over a wood or coal fire; a wood or coal fire that is not hot soon enough; both of which are foolish later; neither of which can be controlled. As well try to cook out in the back-yard over a brush fire. Still the emancipation of Woman is at hand—in fact it has arrived in some cases. The price of Liberty is exactly the price of a modern Gas Range. Who was that woman who, standing on the threshold of her kitchen, uttered the words never to be forgotten: "Give me a Gas Range or give me death?" We forget, but the words were well chosen. They hit the mark and she still lives; lives as should every good, American woman, doing her cooking on an up-to-date Gas Range. She has the woman who cooks over a wood or coal fire beaten to a frazzle.

Don't trifle over a wood or coal fire. Purchase an up-to-date Gas Range (no make the terms easy) and enjoy an independence Day every day in the year.

CONFIDENTIAL—We are selling many Gas Ranges, more than ever so many Gas Ranges, more than for special instruction. We are glad to aid you.

Young Man Was Charged With Drunkenness

William D. Carroll, a young man, was arraigned on a charge of drunkenness before Judge Hadley in police court this morning. Patrolman Whalen, who made the arrest, testified that he was called to Carroll's house last night by the neighbors and found the defendant in a helpless condition. Carroll denied that he was drunk. He said that his wife and her brother drinking on other people's steps he would see Mayor Brown.

Patrolman Whalen upon being called admitted that he had seen Carroll's wife carrying beer, but never saw her drunk.

The court decided that the wife's drinking was in no small measure aggravating to the prisoner and placed the latter on probation.

Edward Conn, who it was stated is a good workman and has a good job, but who goes on protracted absences, was before the court for the third time within a period of one year. Judge Hadley decided that if the man made up his mind to quit drink and do what was right that he could, and decided to give him a trial. He was given a suspended sentence of three months in jail and placed on probation for one year.

Matthew J. Reardon, a third offender, was sentenced to three months in jail.

James Mone, a second offender, was fined $8.

One pint of whiskey, 13 pints of ale and 15 empty ale bottles, seized at the place of John Smith in Leavenworth, was declared forfeited to the state.

There was one $2 drunk.

John Brown, William Shala, and Charles Smith, charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace, were found guilty and each was fined $2 for

LARGE DECREASE

In Exports From the United States

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A statement issued today by the bureau of statistics says that it is now apparent that the exports from the United States in the fiscal year which ends with the present month will fall notably below those of 1908 and 1907 and slightly below those of 1906.

From statistics compiled by the bureau the total value of domestic merchandise exported in 1908 was $1,535,000,000, in 1907 $1,574,000,000 and in 1906 $1,718,000,000. The bureau estimates that the domestic exports for the full fiscal year 1909 will be nearly $2,000,000,000 below the average of 1908 and 1907 and perhaps $500,000,000 below 1906.

The cause of this marked decline in the export trade of the United States is ascribed to a number of factors which have produced similar conditions in other parts of the world—a reduction in the general demand for merchandise and a material reduction in the prices of certain of the more important articles exported.

A SNOW FLURRY

Novel Experience in Franklin County, N. Y.

MALONE, N. Y., June 18.—A snow flurry in mid June was the novel experience of the residents of Duane and other sections of Franklin county early today. The air was sharp and cool as some days in early April. The snow continued to fall for only a short time and it disappeared as fast as it fell.

RATE WAR

BREAKS OUT AGAIN AMONG EASTERN RAILROADS

NEW YORK, June 18.—The import freight rate war of the eastern railroads has broken out afresh. It was learned today that at yesterday's meeting of the import committee of the trunk line association further cuts of 2 cents per hundred pounds in class freight and one cent per hundred in commodity freights were made to take effect Aug. 1.

This is the third reduction in class rates and the fifth in commodity rates since the beginning of the rate war last September.

The first class rate from Boston was originally 70 cents as against the present rate of 61 cents charged by the Boston & Maine railroad. The Baltimore rate was 67 cents and the schedule now to go into effect will reduce the rate at that point to 58 cents with corresponding cuts at this port, Philadelphia and other seaports.

TO REDUCE PRODUCTION

MANCHESTER, Eng., June 18.—At a meeting held here today of the master spinners using American cotton a resolution was passed unanimously in favor of reducing the production of yarn by stopping the mills all Saturdays and Mondays between July 10 and Sept. 27. It is hoped that these curtailments will improve trade.

GRAND LARCENY

Experts Testify in the Brandenburg Case

NEW YORK, June 18.—Expert testimony was introduced early in today's session of the trial of Broughton Brandenburg, the writer of a charge of grand larceny. The purpose of the evidence was to prove that the alleged forged letter of Grover Cleveland which Brandenburg sold to the New York Times last August was typewritten more than a month after Mr. Cleveland's death.

William Relek managing director of the Times identified the alleged forged signature of Mr. Cleveland as the one attached to the article when he had authorized its purchase from Brandenburg. In accepting the article he had relied on the genuineness of the signature. Mr. Brandenburg had told him he testified on cross-examination that he (Brandenburg) had written parts of the article but that the whole had been signed by Mr. Cleveland.

When Mr. Relek was excused the disputed signature enclosed in a glass case was offered in evidence and over objection by the defense was admitted.

FIREMAN COYNE

TELLS OF THE ATTACK ON BRITISH STEAMER

STOCKHOLM, June 18.—Coyne, the fireman on board the British steamer Woodburn of Newcastle that was fired upon in Fittkipas bay Wednesday night by a vessel of the Russian squadron patrolling the rendezvous of Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William, sustained only slight injuries and probably will be able to leave the hospital in a few days. He declares that three other members of the crew sustained slight injuries from the Russian fire. Further details of the occurrence show that the Woodburn strayed during the night within the prohibited zone of navigation of Fittkipas bay. Her captain evidently was unfamiliar with the published regulations. The Russian torpedo boat fired first three blank shots which were followed by four projectiles.

MEXICAN POLICE

MEXICO CITY, June 18.—That the Mexican people intend to do everything in their power to control the oil situation in this country is indicated by the formation of a $25,000 (Mexican money) company to be known as the Compania Mexicana de Petroleo el Aguila, S. A., the Mexican Eagle Oil Co., limited, and of which Guillermo Landa, governor of the federal district, is president.

The company has acquired all the concessions for the development, exploitation and marketing of crude, refined and refined oils as well as other kinds of products held by the firm of Pearson & Sons, limited. The directorate of the new corporation is composed of Mexicans with one exception. They are Enrique Creel, Pablo Macedo, Fernando Pimentel, Lieut. Col. Porfirio Diaz, Jr., Enrique Tron, Luis Elizero and John B. Body. The last named is in charge of the Pearson interests in Mexico.

Big Furniture Removal Sale

On July 15th we will move to our new and more spacious quarters at 160-162 Middlesex street. $10,000 worth of Household Furniture must be closed out at once to save expense of moving. We will try to avoid this expense and inconvenience of moving by getting rid of every piece of furniture we have on our floor before July 15th. Our loss is your gain.

Our entire stock of Carpets, Ranges, Refrigerators, Go-Carts, Parlor Suits, Chamber Sets, Sideboards, Buffets, Dining Tables, Chiffoniers, Dressers, Iron and Brass Bedsteads, Springs, Mattresses, Couches, Art Squares, Lace Curtains, Rugs, Pictures, Mirrors, etc., must be closed out at half of its original cost.

If you had it shown to you where you could buy a Blue Serge Suit, which for style, tailoring and value, stuck out beyond any competition—would you consider it?

If another than your regular clothier should offer you as good a fabric with a much higher standard of tailoring—would it be sufficient reason to make a comparison?

If you're from Missouri, we'll show you

We'll show you Blue Serge Suits of guaranteed color—made by Stein-Bloch, the greatest tailors in the world.

We'll show you Blue Serge Suits that Stein-Bloch customers retail pretty generally for $25.00.

We'll show you why it pays us to offer them at $20.00—
though we're entitled to more money.

And we'll show you the smartest shop in town where Men's clothes are sold.

These Stein-Bloch Serges are made in single or double breasted sack models.

The single breasted have proportions for tall, short, stout and regularly built men, ranging from 34 to 46 breast measure.

The double breasted are for young men—up to 40 breast.

The illustration is a faithful copy of the garment—taken from life.

The superb tailoring which is characteristic of Stein-Bloch productions is the result of an organization that has taken 34 years of constant, careful and ceaseless work to perfect.

If you are unacquainted with the Stein-Bloch tailoring standard this $20.00 Serge Suit proposition offers a splendid chance to test it.

FOREST FIRES

Have Been Checked by the Rains

FRESQUE ISLE, Me., June 15.—A terrestrial rain early today brought to an abrupt halt the ravage of the forest fires which after smoldering for several days were stimulated into new life by high winds yesterday and today much anxiety among the residents of the district would again be dispelled. Before the new's brief career was interrupted they had caused a damage of more than $100 to a school and farm buildings in the vicinity of this town. The property today was very heavy and combined with the rain after midnight
the fire in the town and out was checked. This rainfall would have a permanent effect in quenching the forest fires which have caused a great devastation in northern New Brunswick. The rain was also responsible for having extinguished the forest fires in New Brunswick.

FOREMEN ACCUSED

Charged With Violation of the Minor Labor Law

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 18.—Proceedings were instituted in police court yesterday by Sherman E. Burroughs in behalf of Henry C. Morrison, state superintendent of public instruction, against four foremen in mills and shops for alleged violation of the laws governing the employment of minors under the age of 16 years.

Special charges are made against Herman Mergner, of 4 Forest avenue, second man at the print works; William H. Sweetser, of 25 West Merrimack street, overseer of spinning in one of the Amesbury mills; Arthur E. Chisney, overseer in the Stark mills; and Owen C. Eastman of 457 Merrimack street, assistant foreman at McMillan's Eastside shoe factory.

The charges are made by Robert Mitchell of South New Market, deputy of the state superintendent. The respondents were represented by Edwin P. Jones and Robert L. Manning. A hearing was set for Monday morning in police court. Each of the defendants was held in $100 bail, which was furnished. One of the witnesses to the hearing Monday will be tenant of the factory, Curtis Davis, who will be asked if he gave licenses to any of the boys employed.

It is charged against Mergner that he employed Charles Bouchard, who is said to be under the age of 16, and Sweetser is charged with having employed Adelant Sney, a boy said to be under the legal age. Two complaints are lodged against Mr. Mergner, one in the case of Francis Duggin, whom he is alleged to have employed on the 14th of the month, and one against Anna Znoj on the 15th. Mr. Eastman is charged with having employed John Jarski, who is claimed to be less than 16 years of age.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

WATERTOWN, June 18.—The excellent scores made in the qualifying round yesterday of the Massachusetts Golf association's seventh championship brought considerable interest to the match play today. The first round of the match play today was the most favorable weather. The first pair started off shortly before 10 o'clock.

As the qualifiers for the first round were regarded as the best in the state and as there were no upsets yesterday, keen contests were looked for and behind each of the favorites there sat a group of enthusiastic followers of the game watching every stroke.

The match which attracted the most attention was that between A. L. White of Brunswick, former intercollegiate champion, and J. B. Hyland of the Vesper Country club of Lowell and one of the strongest players in the state. Both White and Hyland broke 80 yesterday in the qualifying round.

NEW BUILDINGS

Many Permits Issued at City Hall

Lowell's building boom continues, and new buildings are the order of the day. Included in the permits issued at the office of the inspector of lands and buildings at city hall today were the following:

To Alexina Bellemore, for the erection of a three tenement house in the rear of 46-48 Aiken avenue. The building will be 24 by 36 feet, room date, and the estimated cost is $1200.

To Arthur Genest, for the erection of two houses in Sarah avenue near Phoenix avenue. One is a cottage house and the other a two family house, 24 by 36.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The Academy will open its summer season with a grand amateur performance in connection with its regular picture program. The amateur bill will be different from any amateur performance ever given in Lowell. Adult amateurs and semi-professionals will appear in dramatic, musical and vaudeville acts, and will constitute a whole show in themselves. But in addition to the amateurs there will be a program of four reels of new motion pictures never before presented in Lowell, and including the latest films of the Pathé Freres, Edison, Kalam and Biograph companies, which were only released by the manufacturers yesterday. There will also be two illustrated songs and a series of Travellettes. The show today will run from 2 to 5 and 7 to 10.30. The amateurs will appear tonight. Tomorrow a continuous show will be given from 2 to 10.30 o'clock with a great program of pictures, views and songs. During the summer the Academy will be open every Friday and Saturday and on Friday evenings a grand amateur night will be given.

The admission remains unchanged, at five cents, an admission including a good seat. Reserved seats are five cents extra.

MATRIMONIAL

A wedding on a lawn with the air fragrant with the perfume of the flowers and the birds twittering in the leaves overhead, was the rather unusual scene presented at North Pelham last Wednesday afternoon when Mr. Percy Hill of Somerville, Mass., and Miss Julia A. Tuxbury of Cambridge, Mass., were made man and wife. The nuptial knot was tied under a bower of evergreen that had been tastefully arranged under the trees on the lawn surrounding the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Sadie Hill. Rev. L. H. Hyde performed the ceremony. Mr. George R. McKay was best man, and Mrs. Sadie Hill stood up with the bride.

QUA-TUXBURY

Mr. Stanley E. Qua of this city and Miss Annie May Tuxbury of Haverhill were married last evening at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Lucy A. Tuxbury, in Portland street, Haverhill. Rev. Robert L. Wedge, pastor of the Portland Street Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The bride is an accomplished young woman and a favorite in the social circles of Haverhill. Mr. Qua is a rising young lawyer and is president of the common council. The ceremony was witnessed by many friends of the young couple including Dartmouth college classmates of Mr. Qua. Friends were present from Philadelphia, Boston, Haverhill, Lowell, Malden, Newburyport and other places.

FOR A LESS NOISY FOURTH.

The Boston police authorities did good work in suppressing unnecessary noise in the celebration of Bunker Hill day. They should adopt even more rigorous measures for a less rigorous Fourth of July. The ceaseless din and roar of firecrackers is torturing to those who cannot get away from it. It should be stopped.

Our last Fourth in Lowell was somewhat less noisy than those of other years, but yet there is much room for improvement, and it is to be hoped that the police of our city will make an effort to suppress some of the needless ear-splitting demonstrations. It will be many years before the observance of the Fourth can be brought to a basis of reasonable sanity.

AS TO PAYING FOR STREET WATERING.

The question of how street watering should be paid for is under discussion and has been submitted to the city solicitor for legal advice. Some people favor having the street watering paid for out of the general treasury by taxes levied on all real estate, but others, and we are inclined to favor their idea, hold that while all the streets are not watered, only the residents of those that are watered should be taxed for street watering. The street department is not prepared to water all the streets of the city regularly, and it would be unfair, therefore, to tax all real estate for street watering while only a portion of it received the benefit of street watering. Let the present rule remain under which those who benefit by the street watering have to pay the bill.

FOR AN INCOME TAX.

President Taft's message relative to an income tax covers the legal aspect of the case, and may result in a constitutional amendment if such be necessary to warrant congress in imposing such a tax. There is no doubt whatever that present conditions in this country make an income tax necessary first in order to prevent the dangerous accumulation of wealth in the hands of a few, and second, as a means of raising revenue from those best able to pay it.

It is the opinion of many constitutional lawyers in this country that an income tax can be levied if the law be properly drawn without any change in the constitution. As it is a very difficult thing to change the constitution and one that requires a great deal of time, it would be well to try the more practical method of authorizing the tax before resorting to that extreme.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF AFRICA

It is quite likely that as a result of the Roosevelt hunting tour more light will be turned on Africa and greater efforts made to develop its natural resources. Some parts of it, indeed a very considerable portion, is suitable for cultivation and colonization even where thus far only the natives hold sway. The Congo region has been in the public eye for sometime and there are conflicting stories as to the alleged cruelties practised there by the European masters. The time will soon come when even in Africa no power will dare treat the natives with the severity that has been the fixed rule for the past twenty-five years.

Recently the colony of Natal has voted to join the other British colonies, namely Cape Colony, Orange River Colony and the Transvaal. It requires considerable persuasion to have Natal join a union of states in which Dutch domination is likely to prevail, but the general progress was the deciding motive. It is remarkable that explorers cannot go far from the better organized settlements without encountering natives and tribesmen who never saw a white man. Among the uncivilized natives human sacrifice and cannibalism prevail, so that there is a great field for missionaries who are in search of martyrdom.

PUBLIC BATHS A NECESSITY.

The number of people, mainly children, drowned every summer in Lowell while bathing in the rivers or canals emphasizes the need of public baths. In a city of 100,000 people public baths is always a necessity. In Lowell some system of public baths could be established for a very reasonable sum. We have two rivers meeting near the business centre of our city, but both are so badly polluted that nobody can bathe in them without serious risk. The city is threatened by a system of canals, the cool waters of which are very inviting, especially to children. But their swim current is such that bathers can enter the canals only at the utmost peril. Even good swimmers cannot resist the rapid current, and as a result there are many drownings.

Can anything be done to prevent it? Other cities not as large as Lowell have solved the problem in a practical way by establishing a system of public baths, small at first but gradually developed until it fully met the needs of the community. That is what Lowell should do, and what must be done eventually if we are ever to stop paying this annual tribute of six or eight lives every summer. We are in great need of a philanthropist to make the start, but Lowell has few rich benefactors and thus far she has not been remembered in the bequests of many of her wealthy residents who have passed away.

Boston has an ideal system of public baths, some using fresh and some salt water. It is a great boon to the people who in addition are usually visit the beaches. The town of Brookline has a system of public baths that is ideal for a town and even such a beginning would serve for a city such as Lowell. What is needed is a swimming pond or tank made of cement bottom and sides and filled by the city water service. The dressing rooms could be arranged on all sides and might not be elaborate. What we need is an inspiration from a practical builder or engineer who will plan the work and see that it is carried out.

Public baths would be a great aid in improving the public health and combatting the white plague. When a man works in a factory in hot weather and is all sweated on getting through work, there is nothing so refreshing as a bath, nothing so uncomfortable as to go without a bath in such a case.

We are firmly convinced that a system of public baths would lessen intemperance because many of those who drink do so because of some uncomfortable feeling that would be overcome by facilities for bathing and is not overcome but rather increased by strong drink.

GIVEN TO JURY

That George H. Brown is mayor, or by any political affiliation, but you must decide the case fairly between man and man.

"If you should come to the question of damages you have not had one bit of evidence that he has been damaged. Mr. Harrington did not aim to injure Brown personally; he simply wanted to warn the public not to elect him.

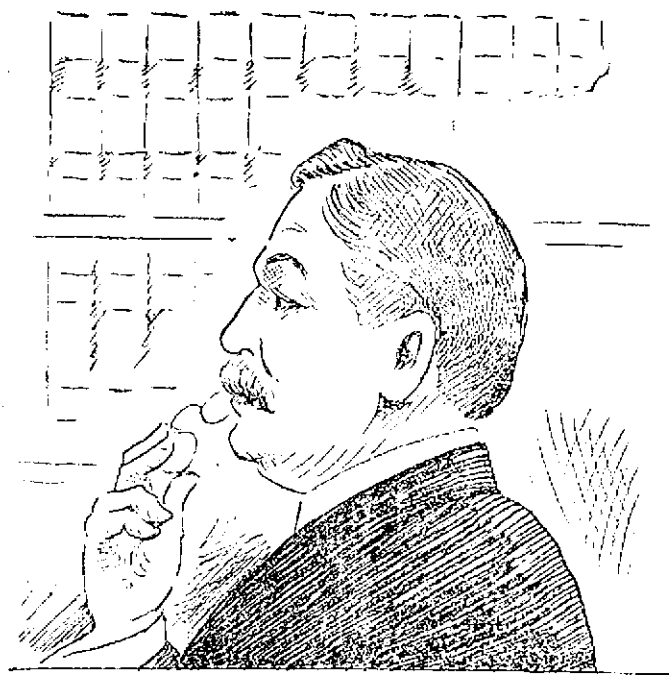

"Contrast the evidence of our witnesses with that of George H. Brown. He is not swayed by any sentiment for Brown. Remain true to your duty and render a just verdict according to the law and the evidence."

Argument for Plaintiff

D. J. Murphy, counsel for plaintiff, addressed the jury. After explaining the responsibility of the defendant in a libel suit to prove the truth and show an absence of malice, he said: "What evidence does Mr. Harrington present to show that Geo. H. Brown took money? There are only a few questions in this case, truth and malice. John H. Harrington had no privilege to come out as he did on the night before election. Mr. Harrington took the ground from under his feet when he testified that for a week he discussed with his men how to defeat Brown. Then on the night before election they brought forth one of the most malicious articles ever written. If John H. Harrington was not malicious he never would have written it. Did he think that he would be brought to justice? No, he thought that the paper who sold newspapers and worked in the carpet mill and who served in the army of this great republic was going down in defeat.

"The main question is, does John H. Harrington know that George H. Brown accepted money, the others are immaterial."

"Take the testimony of Mrs. Margaret Fitzgerald. Geo. H. Brown was one of the officers who took liquor from her home." Mr. Murphy then reviewed her testimony. "The question is did she give Geo. H. Brown the money," continued counsel for the defense. "Can she be believed? She said that she was

WHAT IS ECZEMA?

A COMMON ERROR CORRECTED

An erroneous impression prevails that itching, burning Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Boils, etc., are only skin diseases, and must be treated externally. Hundreds of cases have come under our notice—and probably your experience is similar—where the person afflicted had the disease on the lobe of the left ear and on eruption on the right ankle, while the other members of the body were absolutely free from vesicle, rash, or other outward manifestations, showing conclusively that the blood was poisoned and the poison found vent at the most vulnerable part of the person afflicted. Dr. Taylor's theory is that these diseases originate in the blood, and must be treated from that standpoint, not through the skin alone. This theory is amply proven by the thousands of people who have been permanently cured. Our Blood Purifier forces the poison to the surface of the skin, eliminates it wholly from the blood, and our genuine Lotion and Ointment restore the skin to a healthy and natural condition. served with a summons and afterwards she retracted her statement about the summons and said the paper served on her was a notice of forfeiture of liquor. Was she telling the truth when she said she paid Brown? If she was honest why did she wait till 1909 to say that she gave him the money? If it was true, which we deny, what becomes of John H. Harrington's story that was written Dec. 7, when Mrs. Fitzgerald did not make her story public until after the suit was brought? Mr. Murphy charged that her motive was to injure George H. Brown.

Relative to the testimony of Mr. O'Connor, Mr. Murphy said there was only one way to fight fire and that is with fire, and a back fire was built on Harrington and Spillane. "In warfare you've got to use heroic measures. Any means taken to break down the contemptible work of newspapers is justifiable under the laws of this state."

"Character is greater than riches and a man's character must be protected." Referring to the evidence of Mr. Spillane, counsel for the defense, stated that Mr. Spillane left his position in the health department with a rauling in his heart. He goes out and goes evidence, not to help Harrington, but to get square with Brown. He met O'Connor and O'Connor being a friend of Brown, Spillane off his guard and then reported to the mayor that Spillane said: "They're going to put up a job on him." The mayor did as any man would do; he advised O'Connor to get all the information out of them. There is not much difference in the stories of these except that the other two are trying to clear their shirts upon hearing O'Connor's testimony.

Mr. Murphy then referred to Mr. Harrington's testimony again, and finally showed the cartoon of Dec. 3, claiming that it showed malice.

In his charge to the jury Judge Pierce said: "The plaintiff says he has been injured in this community. It is admitted that the plaintiff was a candidate for office, and it is admitted that this article had as its purpose to deter people from voting for this candidate. A publisher of a newspaper has no greater or no less rights than any individual. When a man becomes a candidate he says to the world, 'I submit myself to your examination. See what you can find about me.' Every man then has the right and maybe he has the duty to say to his fellows what he finds about the candidate as far as he confines himself to the facts and the inferences from the facts. He has the right to comment justly. He hasn't the right to go beyond fair criticism, and he hasn't the right to publish anything that would be ground to believe it true and that he shall do so having at heart the interest of the people for the public good. He must do it for a good motive. He shall publish it for a justifiable end, as in this case the defendant says, to keep out of office a man who would be a public menace."

"Now did Mr. Harrington publish this—to do good to the public of Lowell, or had he a purpose to injure this man? But it is said that the principal things complained of in this case, corruption and bribery, are true. In the matter of libel since 1855 truth is not a justification. If actual malice is shown. The plaintiff claims that the defendant intended to harm him. The burden is on the defendant to establish the fact of the truth. If you find that he has, then it becomes the plaintiff's burden to show the malice."

His honor then went into the matter of the law relating to damages after which he referred to the testimony of Mrs. Fitzgerald and that if the jury found that her testimony is true then that is a complete defense unless it is shown that he wrote the article for the purpose of harming the plaintiff.

The honor referred to the testimony relative to a libel of contributions. In the Howe campaign stating that such a practice by an official is improper. Are these charges true? If they are, then if there was no malicious motive then the verdict goes to the defendant. If the charges are not true or if the article was written with malicious intent, then the verdict goes to the plaintiff and you must award damages according to the extent to which he has been injured in your opinion.

In conclusion the court instructed the jury that this being a civil case the truth must be proven by a preponderance and not beyond a reasonable doubt.

The case went to the jury at 11:25. Yesterday's session will be found on page four.

BEGINNING Sunday, July 4, 1909, and ending Friday, July 9, the tercentenary of the discovery of Lake Champlain by the Frenchman who was the first white man to see the body of water which bears his name will be celebrated.

Canada will be represented by officials from the Dominion, the United States by President Taft, New York state by Governor Hughes and Vermont by Governor George H. Prouty. A Champlain day devoted to commemorative exercises will be observed in the public schools in the state of New York some time in June.

President Taft, with other distinguished guests and members of the commission from New York and Vermont, will be entertained by Smith M. Weed of Plattsburg, N. Y., Wednesday, July 7. Preceding this, the persons named and referred to will be the guests of Colonel Robert M. Thompson at Ticonderoga Monday, July 5. By recent arrangements the march of mounted troops from Fort Ethan Allen to Ticonderoga will be extended to Plattsburg. It is expected that one or more of the Canadian vessels will be represented during the commemorative exercises. The Hon. Charles Langley, high sheriff of Quebec, will enact the part of Champlain in the pageants to be presented each day of the celebration on a floating island. The secretary of the navy has promised the commission to send torpedo boats and submarines to the exercises.

The Ticonderoga, the largest steamer on the lake, will carry President Taft, Vice President Sherman, Speaker Cannon, the British and French ambassadors, Earl Grey, governor general of Canada, and other officials around the lake to the various points at which celebrations will be held. Boats manned by the naval militia will escort the Ticonderoga on her trips. The events of the week will occur as follows: At Crown Point, July 5; Ticonderoga, July 6; Plattsburg, July 7; Burlington, July 8, and at the Isle la Motte July 9.

The most novel feature of the affair will be an island which is now being built to order and which will be completed in time for the chain of events. This island will abound in trees, bushes, rocks and a gravel beach. It will be an island without foundation. The reason for this will be readily understood when it is stated that the island is to be floating in its character and will be towed about from one point to another to play its part in the entertainment. A wooden stockade and Indian wigwags will be features of the island. Two hundred Indians will come down from upper Canada, and give a semblance of reality to the exercises. These Indians are descendants of the very members of the Algonquin tribe with which Champlain warred against the Iroquois. They will take part in sham battles that will be waged daily about the island. These battles will be historically correct reproductions of a conflict between Champlain's forces and his Indian enemies. The same Indians will produce on the island each day a pageant which is their own version of the legend of Hiawatha, and from one of the most picturesque rocky crags a modern Hiawatha will plunge into the water of Lake Champlain. This is not the Hiawatha of Longfellow, of course; but, as white men have different conceptions of many events in their history or legends, the Indians are entitled to theirs.

The white battles will take place on a small stage 116 by 100 feet, built on six barges joined together by planks. It is promised that, in addition to the Indians referred to, there will appear 50 French Canadian Indians in native costume. Besides these features, there will be recitations of poems, addresses and land parades. In the latter several regiments will participate.

Champlain's Beauty and History.

The event will bring to the mind of those who have seen it one of the most beautiful and interesting sections of the country. To those who have not been there and who may not be familiar with the history which the tercentenary will commemorate it may be of interest to learn that not only does the country in question abound with the story of predatory savages and the bloody scout of the frontier, but it was the bone of contention, the key to Canada, for which the representative armies of the two great Anglo-Saxon races fought. Before the settlement of Canada by the French the Iroquois occupied the territory south of the St. Lawrence river and were to be found in great numbers around Montreal and in the valley of Lake Champlain. At one time they had been driven from these hunting grounds by the Adirondacks, who then lived near the "three rivers," but they in turn had driven back the Adirondacks out of their old haunts to a position quite a distance below Quebec. For 200 years prior to the war of 1712 the Lake Champlain territory was the scene of almost continual strife and contention, and the stories of those stirring times have come down to the present generation.

History lurks in every nook of the Lake Champlain country. From South bay, in 1775, Baron de Dieskau with an army of 1,500 French and Indians went out against the English at the head of Lake George. The fort erected at Ticonderoga was called Fort Carillon. The French also built fortifications at Crown Point in 1751. On their subsequent retreat to Canada they destroyed the fort, Frederic, and upon the arrival of the English General

Amherst erected a larger fort. The small bay on the opposite side of the lake, about ten miles from Crown Point, is of interest to Americans. It was in this bay that Benedict Arnold burned his galley and five gondolas after his engagement with the English, Oct. 12, 1776. A little farther north Macdonough fitted out the fleet with which he won the victory of Sept. 11, 1814, the exact point being Otter creek. Here 200 men repulsed a large British force that had been sent out to destroy the American fleet that was fitting out at Vergennes.

Travelers to Lake George have had pointed out a gem known as Sloop Island. It takes its name from the English war vessel that fired upon it during the Revolution, mistaking a tree that stood there for a mast. At Essex falls Burgoyne gave a feast to 400 Indians just before he made his assault upon Ticonderoga. At Schuyler Island Benedict Arnold collected his fleet Oct. 12, 1776, after his retreat from Valcour Island, where there was fought a spirited naval engagement with a British fleet. Plattsburg was the scene of a great land and naval battle. These are not all, but they constitute the more important places in the war history around the beautiful country.

Events of the Week

The program of the exercises beginning July 4 will give the reader an idea of the scope of the commemoration: The fete commences at Burlington, Vt., on the Fourth with special religious observance. Champlain was a devout adherent of the Catholic faith. In view of this, the religious services will be under the supervision of that church. Cardinal Gibbons and a large body of the clergy, including a delegation from the Canadian hierarchy, will participate in the elaborate observances.

The holiday proper will begin at Crown Point Monday, July 5. Here are the ruins of a fort which figures in the history of the French and Indian wars and the Revolutionary war. At this point there will be literary exercises, and the pageant will be presented in the afternoon and again at night. During the week there will be presented at these various points twenty-four pageants, or tableaux, nine representing the history of the Iroquois confederacy down to the arrival of the Dutch in this section of the country and fifteen illustrating the religious ceremonies and social customs of the Iroquois and Algonquins in war and peace. The most interesting of the subjects to be depicted are perhaps the two chief incidents in the progress of the explorer—namely, his discovery of the lake which bears his name and the battle between the Huron-Algonquin allies and the fighting Iroquois, in which he had a hand.

The Indian pageant of the Indian drama, written specially for the event, will be repeated on the evening of July 4. It was at Ticonderoga, the island being towed from Crown Point to "Old Ti" about twenty miles south. Here the Pelis, multimillionaires of New York, are reconstructing from ancient cuts and documents the famous fort that was the scene of brave old Ethan Allen's memorable coup in 1776. The governor of New York and the New York legislature and the governor of Vermont will be present at this event.

Alfred C. Bossom of New York city is the architect of the plans for "Old Ti's" restoration. Wednesday, July 7, is Plattsburg's day. Near that city Benedict Arnold fought and lost the first naval action of the American Revolution. His flagship, the Royal Savage, has been lying where she sank in that fight for 133 years. What remains of the old fighting ship is in a fair state of preservation. It is a part of the program to raise the bulk and rig it up so as to give it a place in the show. The barge Racer, one of the fleet, has been raised and will be in the pageant. It was at Plattsburg that McComb on land and Macdonough on water won their victory Sept. 11, 1814, which earned them the thanks of congress and the gold medal of the nation. President Taft and his party and the French ambassador and Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be entertained at a banquet on the 7th. A banquet, water sports, fireworks and illuminations will occur in conjunction with the other events of the occasion.

The pageant, with all of its incidental attractions, will be repeated at Burlington, Vt., on Thursday, July 8. Vermont's old home week will be observed at the same time. Friday, July 9, the celebration will be continued at Isle la Motte, near the head of the lake. This place is where Champlain first encamped. Besides the pageant at this point, there will be patriotic exercises conducted by the Daughters of the American Revolution and Colonial Dames. These exercises will include the dedication of a bowl to the memory of the Revolutionary hero Colonel Seth Warner and Captain Remondet Baker. Warner was second in command under Allen in the taking of Ticonderoga and on the day following he took Crown Point. He was also with Montgomery in Canada. Baker was a scout and was killed while doing duty.

St. Albans and other towns in the Champlain valley will also observe the occasion. The lake has water connection with the Hudson, and two torpedo boats are to be sent through the connection to take part in the events, and the war department will exhibit its dirigible balloons at Burlington. The Proposed Memorial.

It has been suggested that the memorial to perpetuate the discovery of Lake Champlain take the form of a lighthouse, and a design has been submitted. The plan provides for the erection of the lighthouse, a museum and a heroic size statue of Champlain, the whole to cost roughly $50,000. The site proposed is in Vermont, close to the boundary line of New York, and is near the site of historic Fort St. Anne and the shrine of Ste. Anne, to which pilgrimages are made annually. It is the intention to convert the whole government reservation of about one acre into a big plaza, in the center of which, from a stone platform a hundred feet square, will rise the circular tower of the lighthouse, surmounted by the light at a distance of 116 feet above the level of the lake. Near the base of the lighthouse, on a pedestal forty feet above the level of the lake, will stand a heroic size statue of Champlain made of bronze and ninety feet high.

Champlain was born in Brouage, Saintonge, on the bay of Biscay, in 1567 and died in Quebec at the age of sixty-eight. He was the son of a ship captain and received a careful education as a navigator. He also served in the army. His first voyage to America was to the West Indies in 1593, and during this expedition he landed at Vera Cruz, proceeded inland as far as the City of Mexico and returned by way of Panama. He was, so far as known, the first man to conceive the idea of a ship canal across the isthmus of Panama. It has taken more than 300 years to put the plan in the way of realization. It was in 1803 that he called for America with authority from King Henry IV. of France to explore lands and found a colony. On this expedition he sailed up the St. Lawrence as far as the rapids of St. Louis above the present city of Montreal. He continued his explorations and made several expeditions in colonization and returned several times to France and in 1603 began the building of the town which grew in time to be the city of Quebec. It was the year following that he undertook the expedition which resulted in the discovery of Lake Champlain. HOMER RIVERS.

MATTERS OF INTEREST.

October a War Month.

October has always been an abundant harvest time for war. On Oct. 14, 1066, was fought the battle of Hastings. On Oct. 14, 1155, the whole Saxon army of King Frederick capitulated, and two years later, on the same day, the king was beaten by the Austrians at Hochkirch. Forty-eight years after, on Oct. 14, the Prussian army was routed by Napoleon, and on Oct. 17, 1799, Napoleon commenced his new career of victories. On Oct. 17, 1805, the Austrians were defeated at Ulm; the same date in 1814 witnessed the retreat from Moscow. On Oct. 20, 1817, was fought the battle of Navarino, and Oct. 21, 1905, was the never to be forgotten victory of Trafalgar.

The Age of Animals.

According to a well known British naturalist, the average length of life of animals is as follows: The rabbit lives from six to seven years. The cat from fifteen to seventeen years. The dog from sixteen to eighteen years. The bear eighteen to twenty years. The rhinoceros from twenty to twenty-two years. The horse from twenty-two to twenty-five years. The ox and cow sixty years. The tortoise 110 years. The eagle 150 years. The elephant 400 years. The whale 1,000 years.

Inches in Land and Water.

An acre is 6,272,840 square inches. An inch of water on an acre is therefore 6,272,840 cubic inches. That amount at 2.27 cubic inches to the gallon, equals 2,200 gallons, or 220,000 pounds, or a hundred tons. An inch of rain is, in other words, rain falling at the rate of a hundred tons to the acre.

Conning Towers of Chicago.

The aerial conning tower is the latest device of the Chicago department of smoke inspection. Its value consists chiefly in that the owner of the offending chimney can be notified immediately by the inspector stationed in the lookout.

No High Notes in Canada.

A new American hymnal has been provided for use by the Canadians because, owing to climatic conditions, they are unable to sing the high notes of the English hymnal.

Where Census Is Easy.

Westminster is the most thinly populated of any British country. It has only one inhabitant to every four acres of its surface.

Sidewalk of Human Teeth.

An Atlantic dentist is said to be constructing a sidewalk of human teeth which he has extracted in the past twenty years.

Fighters on Peace Footing.

The peace footing of the armies of the civilized world is in all 4,000,000 men.

A burial association in Paris has automobiles arranged for the transportation of coffins.

CHILDREN FARMING IN THE CITY

Five Hundred From the Tenement Districts Planting and Cultivating Crops on a Crowded Rim of the Metropolis

DOWN at the foot of Fifty-third street, on the rim of the bustling and everlastingly rushing of New York city, looking out on the Hudson river, lies the children's farm of the great metropolis. The correct name is the Children's School farm. The site used to be a rubbish heap and dumping ground. That was eight years ago. The sun of the summer blistered it; the cold winds of winter chilled it. Nothing in its bleak and cheerful aspect indicated that it would ever nurture a plant of the hardiest sort.

A problem presented itself to the city. What was to be done with its children who live in the tenement districts? These who had any tendency to tuberculosis were special objects of consideration. Such as these required the air. Unless they were uncoupled they would perish in the shadow of plenty. The problem interested a woman, Mrs. Henry Parsons. She worked it out. She got the attention of the city fathers. The amount of money obtained was not large, but it was enough to get the farm under way. The appropriation is $500 a year. Mrs. Parsons is working along this amount, believing that the seed that is being done will eventually induce private contributions which will enlarge her field.

The farm is an adjunct to De Witt Clinton park. It is not a farm in the sense of the word as understood in the farming portions of the country, but when one takes into consideration the almost fabulous value of land in New York city one acre of land for farming is extensive. This acre is subdivided 100 times into tiny lots 4 by 8 feet, with intersecting paths. In this enclosure 500 children between the ages of eight and fourteen grade, seed and cultivate the plants. To be exactly correct, they farm. What they produce is theirs, and they do it all for the fun they get out of it.

So eager are these little ones for an opportunity to get out of the house and the dirt of the tenement districts that they compete for the opportunity. Each applicant must register in order to become a farmer, and the number every year. For the seeding that takes place in July there are 500 new farmers. In order to allow for irregularities in attendance the enrollment is 600. Each plot contains seven articles—radishes, beans, peas, beets, car-replies that one might fail. It is all right on a city farm. In the observation plots, cultivated in common, are grown wheat, broom corn, okra and rye. Some of the squashes raised in these plots would show up well at a county fair.

When it rains these little farmers are still busy. In a great building in the farm are vegetables in all stages of growth, from the seed to the fully developed plant. Stereoscopic views of growth that is learned in that way. Nothing that gives thoroughness to knowledge is omitted or neglected.

Back of the farming idea is another that will eventually count for the farmer. A social question is involved.

by the work the little farmers do on the community flower beds, paths and observation plots. Twice a week the crippled children go to the farm to tend the scores of more plots allotted to them. The work is always done cheerfully. Most of these cripples are unable to stand, and it is a touching sight to see them lie flat on their faces while at work.

Farming is not the only thing taught on this tiny acre. Housekeeping is one of the adjuncts. Even the boys have the privilege of preparing for the table the vegetables they have raised. One of the great benefits derived from this city farming is the opportunity it gives the children to obtain work later on in the country. In some cases the parents have followed the children, and in this way the benefit is doubled for to many parents getting out of the crowded city is not only a godsend to them, but it means the health and well being of the children.

The city farm has already received the endorsement of the international tuberculosis congress and has been approved by the practical farm workers and the department of agriculture at Washington. The proposition is far-reaching. It saves the lives of the renter children of the city, and it gives the country what the country is calling for—workers who are familiar with what is required in the great agricultural sections.

Mrs. Parsons, who formulated the idea of a city farm for children, is in earnest about the problem and enthusiastic as to its results. "My feeling is," she said, "that the solution of more than one great national question like the conservation of our forests, for instance, hinges on the school garden movement. The child must know what nature's resources are before he can become intelligently anxious to conserve them."

At No. 672 Middlesex street is one half of a two and one-half story brick building with slated roof and about 2392 square feet of land. It consists of two tenements, the one on the first floor having seven rooms, bath, cellar, and cold water, the upper story having eight rooms, bath, cellar, and cold water, there are also two detached attic rooms. This is a very desirable location for renting of small tenements and rents for $396 a year. The lot has a frontage on Middlesex street of about 2392 square feet, with a depth of about 100 feet. The parcel of property is a very large percentage to the renter who has a little time and attention to give to it. The speaker who is looking for a large return for his money should look this property up.

These three parcels are sold to settle up the Maguire estate, and the sale will be absolute, to the highest bidder. All inquiries should be made at the office of the auctioneer, where further particulars can be had.

C. F. KEYES in charge for the heirs.

FIRST AUTHENTIC PHOTOGRAPH OF MYSTERIOUS LONDON SUICIDE

LONDON, June 18.—Mary Agnes Ruiz, the beautiful American woman who killed herself in a fashionable apartment in London and whose name was connected with that of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, was born in St. Louis in 1874. She was the wife of a Cuban diplomat named Ruiz when she met Vanderbilt in New York city a few years ago. Later she occupied luxurios apartments in New York city and still later a magnificent country house at Port Chester. At the time of her death she was living in luxury in Grosvenor street, London. The extraordinary efforts to suppress the facts relative to her death were due to the attention of the British parliament, where a member declared that the mystery was surrounded by a wall of American gold.

Funeral of Mr. Michael J. Johnson, who died of a heart attack during services appropriate selections were rendered by members of the choir, Mr. Johnson presiding at the organ. The bearers were Thomas Brown, John McNamee, James Newton, John Riley, George Harrington and Edward Boland. The funeral was in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

MURRAY.—The funeral of John E. Murray took place from his late home, 26 Kingston street this morning at 7 o'clock and a mass of requiem was sung at the Sacred Heart church at 7:15 o'clock by the Rev. T. Wade Smith O.M.I. The choir sang the Gregorian mass and at the offertory Mrs. A. Muloon sang "Pie Jesu." As the body was being borne from the church the choir sang "De Profundis." The bearers were Messrs. James Finn, John Devereux, John Thompson, John and Carter, Patrick Conway, and John.

SEARCH FOR BODY

BRIDGETON, N.J., June 18.—Search of the shores of Highland lake was made today for the body of Joseph Willis, 21, who was engaged to be married next Tuesday to a Bridgeton young lady and who disappeared while transporting a quantity of lumber by boat to a camp he was erecting at the lake. It was believed by his captives in a small and crowded boat. The boat was much overloaded and the water was rough and spotted with white caps. The boat later was found with an out and part of the last gone. Willis came from Melton, Yorkshire, England, two years ago, and lived with Mr. Baker, Frank Stanley.
